FOOD BILL GOES TO SENATE

Order Carrying Out American's Demand for Lower Prices to Start State Probe

The Thore food investigation order, one of the quick results of the Boston American's campaign for reasonable prices on staples, is now up to the Massachusetts Senate.

It passed the House without opposition, having been favorably reported by the Committee on Rules.

Speaker Joseph E. Warner, who wields so much legislative power by virtue of his office, and who is chairman of the Committee on Rules, facilitated the adoption of the order

REPORT THREE CASES OF GAS POISONING

Three cases of gas poisoning were reported to the police today. In East Boston Joseph Borofsky, seventeen, and his brother David, eleven years old, were found in bed overcome by gas at their residence, No. 22 Chelsea street. They were attended by Dr. E. Coleman Brown and were revived.

Lyke Brown, a lodger at the Bay State House, was found unconscious in his room on the fourth floor from gas, by Charles Day, the hotel clerk. He was taken to the Relief Station where it is thought he will recover.

BOSTON A DEBARKATION PORT--IT'S OFFICIAL

Boston was officially named in a statement from the adjutant-general at Washington as one of the four ports for the debarkation of troops at the army headquarters on Chauncy street today. The other ports are New York, Newport News and Charleston, S. C. Major Michael J. Moore, acting adjutant-general at the department, said: "This is the first official announcement we have had about Boston being one of the normal ports for debarkation."

ROBBERS SET FREE BY RIOT MOB IN GERMANY

Berlin, Feb. 11, via London, Feb. 12.—One hundred rioters, including discharged soldiers, broke into the jail at Kiel, near Dusseldorf, at 4 o'clock this morning releasing all of the prisoners, including a dangerous robber band. The police made no resistance and the Soldiers' Council was powerless.

New Arrests Coming in Plot to Kill President

By International News Service.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 12.—Pietro Pierre, I. W. W. member arrested in Cleveland on a charge of plotting to kill President Wilson and William G. McAdoo, will be brought to Kansas City to trial if a Federal Grand Jury orders him held. Other arrests are expected.

B. J. Bobba, named as an accomplice of Pierre, is under surveillance in the Federal prison at Leavenworth. He is blamed by United States District Attorney Robertson with having converted Pierre to I. W. W. beliefs and to have been instrumental in sending Pierre out with a determination to assassinate the President.

FISH COST NOW LOWEST SINCE BEFORE WAR

Fish today on the Boston market is the lowest since before the war, and a third cheaper than in the sighting of the armistice. Six vessels brought to the Boston Fish Pier today nearly half a million pounds of haddock, in addition to three million pounds of fish that had accumulated on Monday and Tuesday.

The prices that wholesalers are paying fishermen follow: Haddock, 2.3 cents the pound; cod stock, 1.6 cents the pound; market cod, 3.4 cents; pollock, 6 cents; halibut, 26.5-30 cents the pound.

Dealers' prices to retailers will run about a cent higher than the prices at the wharf, except in the case of steak cod and halibut, which will range two or three cents higher to the retailer.

A considerable amount of the huge stock of fish at the pier will go into cold storage or to curing houses for smoking and drying.

Previous to the slump which commenced six weeks ago prices for cod had ranged as high as 24½ cents the pound, and in the case of haddock up to 15 cents the pound.

The large increase in deliveries at the fish pier during the period has continued in spite of a strike by the employees of the Bay State Fishing Company.

Favorable weather is considered the main factor in the large supply of fish.

NEW GERMAN REVOLT BY SPARTACANS PLANNED

By International News Service.

Berlin, Feb. 11, via London, Feb. 12.—Soldiers' councils are plotting to overthrow the government in revenge for the death of Karl Liebknecht, it was reported today. Robert Emilo Eichhorn, former Bolshevik chief of police here, who was one of the active leaders of the Spartacans, is said to be one of the chief agitators.

Government troops today recaptured Bremerhaven from the Spartacans without a fight.

3,200 TROOPS COMING ON WARSHIPS AND TRANSPORT

Washington, Feb. 12.—The United States cruiser Montana, carrying approximately 1,400 homecoming American officers and men; the cruiser Pueblo, with about 1,300 officers and men and the transport La Touraine, carrying about 500, have sailed from abroad and are due at New York February 21, it was announced at the War Department today.

SCHLESWIG PROTEST ON UNION WITH DENMARK

Berlin, Feb. 11, via London, Feb. 12.—A resolution protesting against the ceding of any of Schleswig-Holstein to Denmark was adopted at a meeting of Germans at Schleswig and a copy was forwarded to President Wilson.

STRIKERS 'GUILTY' OF CLUBBING

Attorney Connolly Charges Bullets "Planted" in Pocket of Lawrence Defendant

By JOHN F. GAVIN.

Lawrence, Feb. 12.—Attorney Thomas F. Connolly attempted to show today during the trial of Sheldron Masson and Elias Katter, charged with clubbing Patrolman Dwyer during the riot of Friday last, that the bullets found in Masson's pockets were police bullets. His inference was that the ammunition had been planted on his client by officers.

This inference didn't go very far with Judge Mahoney, however, for he adjudged both Masson and Katter guilty of assault. They were fined $20 each and appeals promptly taken. The men were arrested during the most violent disturbance of the strike in Valley street last Friday. Connolly also stated that the police did not fire their shots into the air. On the contrary, he claimed that they were fired less than two feet over the heads of the crowd.

STORES FOR STRIKERS.

Ime Kaplan, the strike leader, declared during the course of the meeting of the strike committee today that the strike was not off. He denied that there had been any cessation in the picketing and stated that it would be continued. The strike, according to Kaplan, will be continued.

The leader stated, however, that there were no plans afoot for holding a mass meeting anywhere outside the city limits of Lawrence. Nor did the committee consider holding a parade in opposition to the wishes of the City Fathers. Kaplan intimated that pos-

TO CLEAN AMERICA OF REDS

Deport 5,000 Bolsheviks and I. W. W.'s as Fast as Ships Will Carry Them

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Some 5,000 Bolsheviks and I. W. W.'s are slated for deportation as soon as the facilities for getting them out of the country are available. This was revealed at the Department of Justice today by John Lord O'Brien, who has charge of this particular phase of the department's work.

He also let it be known that the department is awaiting action by Congress that will permit the deportation of the thousands of interned Germans and Austrians in this country who don't come under the alien anarchist act—under which the others are being rounded up.

The round-up of undesirables was planned by the Department of Justice and Labor months ago following the passage in October of the alien anarchist act, O'Brien stated. Under its provisions agitators who preach the overthrow of the government may be rounded up and sent from the country even without the formality of a trial.

He explained that United States officials would have undertaken action under this law months ago except that because of war conditions it was impossible to return these men to the countries whence they came.

The batch now being held at Ellis Island, it was stated, all will be sent to Russian and Scandinavian ports. This does not mean, it was stated, that they are necessarily Russians and Scandinavians, but that these are the ports from which they originally sailed, and through which they will have no difficulty in reaching their homes.

Thirty Bolshevik and I. W. W. Agitators Rounded Up in the West and Sent to Ellis Island

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 12.—Thirty Bolsheviki and I. W. W. agitators rounded up by government agents in San Francisco, Tucson, El Paso, San Antonio and Dallas passed through here on a special prison train bound for Ellis Island, from where they will be deported.

Dr. Simons, Methodist Minister in Petrograd, Tells Senators of Conditions in Russia

Washington, Feb. 12.—Examination of the Bolshevik propaganda investigation by the Senate committee today was scheduled to begin. Professor Samuel N. Harper of the University of Chicago on the stand to provide a recital of his investigation into the various governments of Russia.

Professor Harper has already told the committee of the results of his twelve visits to Russia, and that in his opinion, the Bolshevist government had been a complete failure.

At the same time Senate members were interested in the statement of Senator King, who declared that the deportation of the gang of I. W. W.'s and others who were brought to New York from as far West as Seattle was but the beginning—that the Department of Labor is working on plans

League Must Be for Peoples, Not Kings, Says Shaw

The articles by George Bernard Shaw on international politics published in the Boston American have attracted widespread attention, not only in Boston and elsewhere in New England, but all over America. Another contribution by Mr. Shaw is presented today.

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

(COPYRIGHT, 1919, BY STAR COMPANY)

London, Feb. 12.—Anyone who has fully grasped the situation of the European powers and mastered the history of the war, a liberty which none of the belligerents could permit even to themselves in private before the armistice, but which is now not only free to us all, but highly desirable, will be staggered by a second reading of Mr. Wilson's speeches of January 8, 1918 (the fourteen points), and his elucidation of it on September 27.

When these speeches were delivered, they passed for an arraignment of the central empires and a demand upon them for securities for good behavior.

Today they have scarcely any meaning except as against Mr. Wilson's own allies. One can almost hear

Grip Kills 81,427 in U. S.; Boston's Toll 4,610

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 12.—There were 81,427 deaths in the United States from influenza from September 14, 1918, to February 8, according to reports received by the Bureau of the Census and classified in a report issued today. During the same period the deaths from pneumonia of all forms totalled 52,514.

New York showed the greatest number of influenza deaths, 14,165. Chicago's toll was 7,581. Boston's 4,610. There was an apparent general increase in the number of deaths during the middle of January, with a continued reduction of deaths since that time.

'CLEAN BILL' IN MOLASSES DISASTER

Finishing its investigation of the collapse, January 15, of the big molasses tank on Commercial street, which killed 19 persons and injured 40 others, the Suffolk Grand Jury found today insufficient evidence to indict any person for manslaughter through criminal negligence.

In a public statement after the Grand Jury had announced this, District Attorney Pelletier called attention to Chief Justice Bolster's findings on the collapse of the tank, urges that the city take more care in approving plans for such structures, and states that if new evidence is found the case can be reopened.

District Attorney Pelletier's statement follows:

"I am instructed by the Grand Jury to publicly state that it has found no evidence upon which to justify an indictment for manslaughter.

"The Grand Jury had in mind Chief Justice Bolster ordered process against the United States Industrial Alcohol Company for maintaining the structure in violation of the law. The Purity Distilling Company, which built the structure, has ceased to exist, and the Hammond Iron Works, which erected the structure, is a corporation without a place of business in this State.

"While unable to place the responsibility in any way as to justify an indictment, the Grand Jury instructs me to call the attention of the public to the very full and complete report of Chief Justice Bolster, and also to call the attention of the public and the public authorities to the finding in his report that the structure did not comply with the law fixing a minimum factor of safety, although the plans were passed on by the building department and authority was given to put up the structure in a way not provided by the law.

"The Grand Jury concurs with the opinion of Chief Justice Bolster that no matter of expense of qualified employe should deter the city from making a most thorough examination of all plans and materials submitted before issuing a permit.

"If any further evidence should develop that Grand Jury has the right to reopen the case and take further action."

POLICE ON TRAIL OF 'QUEEN' OF SHOPLIFTERS

According to special agents investigating the doings of the shoplifting syndicate which is said to have stolen hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of goods from Boston stores, two more arrests will be made shortly. One of them will be the queen of the band, who is said to have profited to the extent of from $50,000 to $100,000 through the depredations of its members.

The other will be of the leader's right bower, a woman whose physical condition would not permit of her arrest last week when two of the members were taken. The arrested pair, Salvatore Ponte and his wife, Maria, were in court today. They were charged with the larceny of property valued at $2,000 from different stores. The cases were again continued, with bail set at $1,000 each.

According to the investigators, the band numbers in the vicinity of twenty members.

HARSH TERMS OF PEACE DEFIED

Weimar, Germany, Feb. 11 (via London, Feb. 12).—"We will combat domination with force to the utmost from whatever source it may come," declared Frederick Ebert in accepting the provisional presidency of the German Empire in the National Assembly today.

The government has decided to submit a measure to the national assembly providing for a peace standing army of 250,000 troops. Belief was expressed today that it would be quickly adopted.

A plan for conscription based upon the Swiss system permitting the sudden mobilization of a large army will be introduced in the national assembly, it is reported.

Peace Negotiations Held Up Because of Japan's Attitude at Conference

Tokio, Feb. 12.—Japan's press and public are excited and irritated over the happenings at the Paris peace Conference.

Three main currents of thought are manifested.

1—Opposition against the mandatory system of administering the German colonies.

2—Opposition against the League of Nations.

3—Bitterness against the prevalent theory that certain nations, notably America and Australia, will continue to draw the "color line."

Feeling is naturally most intense on the last-named point. The Japanese argument is—and popular feeling is being stirred to a high pitch by one-sided reports on this question—that since Japan is to join a league of nations, and her delegates are sitting with the four other leading nations in the council of the "Big Five," all discriminations and restrictions of a racial character should be forthwith dropped.

It is claimed allied statesmen should make it easier for the whole world that the Japanese are welcomed into the League on an equality in race as in all other respects.

As to the statement of the German colonies, the argument set forth by the Japanese plenipotentiary is unanswerable, but the question of the disposition of Germany's colonies is one that must be settled by the conference. It is expected that a general control of the German colonies will be agreed to before the conference concludes, but there has been formed.

In the matter of the League of Nations there has been a sharp division on the part of Japanese public opinion. Up to quite recently the voting has been unenthusiastic for a league, but that feeling has given way to great skepticism.

War Council of Peace Conference Talks Over New Armistice Terms

By ROBERT J. PREW,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Feb. 12.—The supreme Allied War Council resumed its deliberations over armistice terms this afternoon when it met at the Foch office this morning. Questions which have brought about disputes in the quarters were again taken up.

It was hoped that definite agreements could be reached and hurried out at today's session, as time is short before the presentation of armistice terms on February 17.

As a matter of fact, inspired reports quoting Marshal Foch regarding the possibility of Germany submitting the allies to the conditions by March would be amusing if they did not create satisfaction among the German "bolsheviki."

Marshal Foch's attitude, and that of the greatest world leaders is taken to be that it would be impossible for the Germans to renew hostilities in time of the next generation, but, if given the opportunity, of a substitute drive it would be for the commercial supremacy of the world.

If the armistice terms were made possible it would eventually create economic with military effort, which might have disastrous results for the world. Consequently it is regarded as necessary to compile military terms which will be lasting and which will actually be the first action of the peace treaty. Should unanimous effort result from the present meeting it would mark an important forward step in the conference.

President Wilson, Marshal Foch, General John J. Pershing, commander of the American forces; Field Marshal Haig, the British commander-in-chief; General Diaz, the Italian commander, and General Petain of the French army, participated in the special meeting of the war council at the foreign office yesterday, said Marcel Hutin in the Echo de Paris today. The report on new armistice conditions was prepared for submission to today's session.

Wilson Must Return to France; Is Disappointed Over Hold-Up of League

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Feb. 12.—The meeting tomorrow's session of the League of Nations Committee develops sufficient harmony to secure the complete adoption of a constitution, President Wilson must hasten back to France at the earliest possible moment.

The eleventh-hour League of Nations holdup is very disappointing to the President and his close advisers.

When the second draft of the constitution was read on Tuesday opposition developed at once. It is understood the question of using economic weapons to prevent future wars was involved.

The opposition that developed was so acutive that the differences were referred to the new sub-committee composed of Ferdinand Larnaudo of France, Lord Robert Cecil of England, Premier Venizelos of Greece, and M. Vesnitsch of Servia.

It is now certain that Mr. Wilson must come back to France shortly after receiving Washington's reply.

Mrs. Wilson and everything possible packed up at the Murat mansion, and it is believed the President and his wife will leave either on Sunday or Monday. The presents and souvenirs in Mrs. Wilson's fill thirty-one big packing cases.

It is expected the presidential party will land in America on or about February 27.

The President and Mrs. Wilson attended the opera last night. Their box was filled with flowers. The party included, in addition to the President and Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson, Admiral Grayson and Secretary of State Lansing. Mrs. Wilson wore a new Worth gown.

Racing Against Death to Reach Bedside of Sailor Brother

Over at the Chelsea Naval Hospital chief Boatswain John F. Beere has been unusually ill.

Every little while he calls for his brother, Sergeant George Beere, formerly of the 212th infantry in France.

Some time today Sergeant Beere will reach the bedside of his brother if efforts to slash army red tape avail. He arrived on the Leviathan at New York.

Mrs. Nina G. Beere of No. 18 Benedict street, Somerville, mother of the boys, is anxiously waiting word that Sergeant Beere has been allowed to come direct to Boston.

When the condition of the sailor son became alarming a short time ago Sergeant Beere's family to get word to his soldier brother that he had something important to tell him.

Wilson to Be First Chief Executive of League of Nations, Says Pall Mall

London, Feb. 12.—The draft of the League of Nations provides for a President and the first executive will likely be President Woodrow Wilson of the United States, the Pall Mall Gazette was informed today. The plan calls also for ambassadorial rank for the representatives of the various nations. Those representing the "Big Five"—America, England, France, Italy and Japan—will be appointed promptly, according to the Pall Mall Gazette.

The league probably will ask the United States to accept mandatories for the protection of Armenia and control of the littoral of the Sea of Marmora, Constantinople, the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles, conditional upon the consent of Great Britain.

The delegates to the league will choose a chancellor in addition to a president, but the society is expected to operate for a year before any president is selected. No nation, the Pall Mall Gazette continues, will be bound to employ an army and navy except morally when the league calls for them.

2,000 SERVICE MEN PARADE IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, Feb. 12.—More than 2,000 soldiers and sailors of Rhode Island who have returned from the trenches and the patrol of the seas, paraded in this city today and were given an official reception by Governor Beeckman. Mayor Gainer, and city and State officials. Following the parade the men were tendered a luncheon by the State.

APPEALS $5 FINE FOR STEALING BOTTLE OF RUM

Arthur J. Walsh appealed today in the South Boston Court from a fine of $5 on a charge of stealing a bottle of rum from the liquor store of David Henry on West Broadway. Walsh is alleged to have asked the clerk to wrap up a bottle of the best rum. He took the package, the clerk says, and disappeared from the store without paying.

WOBURN WOMAN IS GIVEN A DIVORCE

Mrs. Mary J. Jahnle of Woburn was given a decree of her suit for divorce against Carl B. Jahnle of parts unknown by Judge Chase at East Cambridge. The case was uncontested. Mrs. Jahnle alleges cruel and abusive treatment.

SINN FEIN WILL FIGHT LAND TAX PAYMENTS

Cork, Ireland, Jan. 25.—(By Mail)—Four radical steps which will be taken by the Irish Irish republic as soon as its government gets under full swing, are:

1—Request the farmers to refuse to pay their land annuities to the British treasury.

2—Refuse to pay the income tax.

3—Establish Sinn Fein courts.

4—Set up Sinn Fein postoffices in opposition to the British government, where possible.

The Republicans claim the whole administration will be under way shortly.

The plan to request the farmers to refuse to pay annuities is based upon the idea that it will be impossible for the British government authorities to select all of them or to put emergency men or bailiffs into each holding. Arrests are anticipated, but a fund will be started to defend the men and their families.

Secretary Brady of the Cork City Sinn Fein executive committee already has been put into jail for refusing to pay his income tax. But his employers, who are influential local merchants, brought about his release by paying the tax. The Republicans contend that if the people organize they need not pay. As an example they cite the members of the trades unions who have been served with tax papers, but who refuse to pay.

The Sinn Fein courts will be established mainly for the consideration of land and debt disputes. The Republicans expect the people to carry their disputes to these tribunals and abide by the decisions rendered.

sibly a mass meeting would be held but not in violation of the law.

He and other leaders stated that there were two private tracts of land in Lawrence which were closed for mass meetings in 1912, and which may be used again this week. According to Kenyon, the cooperative stores of the city have been turned over to the strikers for the balance of the period.

These stores are conducted along racial lines, and according to the leaders the owners of the stores, including Lithuanians, Polish, Russian, Jewish, Italian and Franco-Belgians, were in full sympathy with the workers. They have turned their business over to the general committee.

For the first time since the opening of the strike there was money across today. Picketing was at a minimum, there being none at the Arlington Mills and little at any of the others.

Working Lawrence wonders whether or not the strike has collapsed. The protective forces of the city are pondering whether or not the strikers are attempting something entirely new and novel. They have had no intimation that the strikers would give up the fight.

Meanwhile the Central Labor Union is believed to be behind a move to have the Wage Adjustment Board of the National War Labor Board take some action in the local crisis. Former State Senator Kelliher is one of those behind the move to have the national body intervene. It is believed that such a body would wield more influence with both the strikers and the manufacturers than the State board.

U. S. Casualties In Russia 424 Up to Date

By International News Service

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Casualties in the American expeditionary forces in Russia total 424 to date it was announced at the War Department today. They are classified as follows:

Killed in action 62, died of wounds 115, died of disease 34, died of accidents 8, wounded severely 69, wounded slightly 23, wounded degree undetermined 25 and missing in action 21.

that will vastly increase the number of deportations as soon as facilities are available.

It is known that the Bureau of Immigration officials of the Department of Labor have been working with agents of the Department of Justice and that the records of many undesirable citizens are on file, and that many of them—the total may run into the thousands—will be invited to leave the country as soon as plans are complete for a plan to send them.

Sentiment in the Senate seems to be practically unanimous that such action is warranted, although there also have been warnings from such leaders as Senator Borah and Kenyon that the proper method is to remove the causes that go to make Bolshevism, rather than to try to suppress it by force.

The story of how the stage was all set for the entrance of Lenine and Trotsky into the great world drama, "Revolution," produced in Russia, by the Germans, was told by the Rev. Dr. G. A. Simons. Dr. Simons was pastor of the Methodist Church in Petrograd from 1907 until October, 1918.

"Hundreds and hundreds of agitators, all from the East side in New York, were circulating among soldiers and civilians," said Dr. Simons, "and after the Kerensky revolution they were responsible for the growing pro-Germanism in Russia. Had it not been for the many different parties the Kerensky revolution would have been successful, he said.

A great pogrom or massacre of Jews is expected in Russia at any time now, Dr. Simons declared. The massacre is so imminent, he said, that Bolshevik officials already are sending their wives and children and jewels out of the country.

The Deep Rivers Turn More Waters Into the Sea Than a Mere Brook

Men and women must diligently foster the habit of economizing. Don't bring yesterday's cares, worries and burdens into today. With caution, yes, great precaution, I predict $2.00 will buy more at our sale tomorrow than it has ever bought in my many years of coming to the city of Boston. Cold, precise lemons, made in the image of real women, who say they never did wrong when we know it was because they never did anything, are not the keen, wide-awake women who a man would choose for his wife, nor are they fit to be compared to the interesting, busy, provident women who are at my sale every day by the thousands. You cannot lay the sin of covetousness at my door. Profits are not the master of my sales. And this was never better demonstrated than in this $2.00-Day advertisement.

STATE HOUSE HEARING UNANIMOUS FOR 6 MONTHS' PAY TO SOLDIERS

SPEAKERS FAVOR BONUS

Large Crowd, Without a Single Voice of Opposition, Urges Its Merits

A unanimous indorsement of the bill of Representative A. E. Bliss, recommending that the Congress of the United States give to discharged soldiers and sailors six months' pay, as urged by the Hearst newspapers, was recorded at the hearing of the bill before the Committee on Federal Relations in the State House today. There was a large attendance and no opposition to the bill.

Among those who spoke in its favor were W. L. McDonald, representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who said that his organization had more men in the service than any of the other labor organizations. D. J. Mahoney, representing the building trades, reiterated the indorsement of the previous speaker.

Representative Driscoll of Boston said that many of the boys who are coming back are without a cent or a suit of civilian clothes. "We in the labor unions have all been asked to let them work, but it is a great task," he said. "We in Massachusetts ought to give six months' pay in addition to six months' pay from the government."

HELPED SPANISH WAR SOLDIERS.

Representative Gosselin of New Bedford and Timothy W. Kelley, department commander of the Massachusetts Spanish War Veterans, both spoke in favor of the bill. The latter recalled the fact that in 1898 the government granted a thirty-day furlough with pay to soldiers. He said that there are many applications for relief turned over to the Red Cross for immediate attention.

The committee was informed of the petition of the Hearst newspapers, with its 1,145,000 signatures, asking for the six months' pay for soldiers, by the American correspondent. He also called attention to the indorsement of this petition by the large number of labor leaders and by national and State leaders of the Grange.

DISCHARGED SOLDIER SPEAKS.

A. S. Shubow, a discharged soldier, spoke from the soldiers' point of view. He said that he wore his uniform for four weeks after his discharge from service because he could not secure money enough for a civilian suit of clothes. He said that the outfit he was then wearing cost $100 and that many of the boys would not be fortunate enough to receive money from relatives and friends until they earn it.

Mrs. A. M. Cousine of Newton and Mrs. Flora G. Barr were women who gave their indorsement to the bill. Mrs. Cousine was applauded when she said, "Instead of medals, give the boys their six months' pay."

Julius Meyer of Boston, Joseph Roebuck of Framingham, David M. Sholket of Roxbury, Rabbi Joseph D. Bernan of East Boston and Representative Jones of Pittsfield also endorsed the bill.

Deny Liberty Loan Will Be Postponed Beyond Spring

Washington, Feb. 12.—Reports that the Victory Liberty Loan would be postponed beyond next Spring were flatly denied at the Treasury Department. The following statement was made for Secretary Glass:

"The loan will be launched in April. Three tentative dates have been considered, but none has been definitely decided upon yet. The choice seems to lie between April 6, the anniversary of the war, and a date later in the month.

"Even if Congress does not authorize the secretary to issue $10,000,000,000 of bonds, he has authority under existing statutes to issue $5,000,000,000 and there will be a Liberty Loan in April."

TRY MAINE MAN FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Augusta, Me., Feb. 12.—Landlord Hayes, owner of the Kennebec Paper Mill machinist who attempted to kill Miss Alice Simpson, who failed to reciprocate his ardent love, and killed by mistake Mrs. Edith Cole of Winslow, was put on trial for the murder of Mrs. Cole in Kennebec County Superior Court before Justice Fred Emery Beane of Hallowell today.

A special venire was drawn. Hayes, handcuffed to a deputy sheriff, was guarded in a dark suit and wore tortoise shell glasses. Although his air in entering the court was jaunty, it was apparent to his acquaintances that he has aged since his confinement in the Augusta State Hospital, where he was sent last September to be examined as to his sanity. Soon a firm voice he pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of murdering Mrs. Cole on the evening of August 15 last.

The drawing of the jury then began. Three were chosen when challenges both by the State and by counsel for the defendant were made. General Guy H. Sturgis of Portland and County Attorney Walter M. Sanborn of Augusta, representing the State, and ex-Attorney-General William R. Pattengall of Augusta and Carroll S. Perkins of Lewiston appeared for the defendant.

The drawing of the jury was completed in less than an hour.

SERGEANT HELD FOR POSTOFFICE BREAK

Sergeant William J. Smith, alias Egnio J. Kelley, was held in Greenville, O., and who was arrested a few days ago on the charge of breaking into the postoffice at Sterling Junction, has been held by United States Commissioner Hart at Boston on the action of the Federal Grand Jury on his case.

Smith, who is a mess sergeant at Camp Devens, is charged with taking away two mail bags valued at $100 and $120 and stamps valued at about $12. Sergeant Smith testified that he had been offered a hundred dollars which he had done as a favor to a James Quinn, who was a private at Camp Jackson, S. C.

CABLE PROTEST ON HERRON TO PRESIDENT

Ripon, Wis., Feb. 12.—Fifteen residents of Ripon, headed by Mayor G. H. Graham, have sent a cablegram to President Wilson protesting against the selection of Professor George D. The protest declared that his previous record proves him unfit to represent the United States.

MILWAUKEE IS AFTER GRETNA GREEN HONORS

Milwaukee, Feb. 12.—Milwaukee has started a campaign to make this city Wisconsin's Gretna Green, instead of Waukegan, Ill., which has enjoyed the lucrative honor for several years. The county board has adopted a resolution asking for a law to permit marriages to take place in Wisconsin without the present five-day interim between license and marriage. The board also wants the eugenic standard wiped out of the law.

WOMAN AGAIN WRECKS SALOON AT WEBSTER

Webster, Feb. 12.—For the second time since Christmas, a woman has wrecked an Oxford avenue saloon, smashing windows and mirrors and driving all its occupants out through the rear door before a barrage of bottles. 'GIRL RAFFLES' SOUGHT AT DEVENS

Officers Believed Implicated in Activities of Missing Young Woman

By THOMAS F. PHELAN

Camp Devens, Ayer, Feb. 12.—A "girl Raffles," whose home is in the Berkshires, is being sought by the agents of the Department of Justice in connection with a case in which it is stated several officers in this cantonment are involved.

She is said to have been employed in a nearby town and left her wife a large sum of money which, it is asserted, she gave to an officer to hold for her. A soldier's sack figures in her disappearance.

Major-General Harry P. McCain, in charge of this cantonment, will report to Washington to be invested by the Secretary of War with a Distinguished Service Medal. It is hinted that he will be assigned to duty in addition to another office while in that city and that his place here will be filled by General Edwards of the Department of the Northeast.

BAN ON LIQUOR.

Officers and soldiers in this cantonment who are caught under the influence of liquor will meet with severe punishment, according to a command issued today. Since the signing of the armistice it is alleged that many men have made it a rule to get drunk at a late hour in an intoxicated condition.

Several officers whose names are known arrived here one night recently in a motor car and proceeded to the offices of strong drink. It is understood they will be asked to appear at camp quarters and explain matters.

Six officers and 170 men of the 152nd Infantry and a large number of wounded men are due here today.

PRAISE SERGEANT-MAJOR.

Sergeant-Major Clinton J. Underwood has been complimented in general orders by Captain Arthur H. Whitman for his work in connection with the making out of insurance cards. He personally handled the issuance of 15,000 certificates.

Overzealous authority in entitling the camp authorities to change the system of the issuance of mess kits, therefore, every man had his own mess kit, but now it is necessary for them to select a kit from a pile on a table.

AMERICANS TO REPAIR SIBERIAN RAILROADS

Washington, Feb. 12.—Because the plan affords a means of helping the Siberian people who have suffered for lack of railway transportation, the United States has agreed to participate in the rehabilitation of the Siberian railway system, it was announced by Acting Secretary of State Polk today. Britain Demands Ban for All Time on Submarines

Naval experts believe that a great fleet of underwater craft could successfully defend American shores from any attack, Brief dispatches from Paris have indicated that England will demand at the peace conference a lasting ban on submarines. The following article is believed to reflect the British view:

By SIR LEO G. C. CHIOZZA,

Ex-Parliamentary Secretary to the British Ministry of Shipping.

Exclusive Service of the International News Service and London Daily Express.

London, Feb. 12.—The British empire nearly perished by submarines—nearly, but not quite.

Early in 1917 there were those who thought that all was over. If the losses of April, 1917, had continued for nine months we and our allies would have been defeated.

The submarines were defeated by a combination of attack, defense and avoidance. But some of the victory is a narrow escape—by the fact that Germany had few submarines when she started her ruthless campaign.

But what of the future? Is our island home secure from the submarine?

I fear the answer to this question is that as long as the submarine remains a weapon of war we must continue in grave danger. To put aside minor experiments, the submarine is only some thirty years old.

My purpose here is to suggest that for the good of mankind and for the good of our island peoples it should live no longer. The League of Nations will do its work, if it does not order the destruction of all submarines and rule that no more be built for any purpose whatsoever.

The submarine, let us remember, is still in its technical infancy. So very effective submarine was made until about 1900, only fourteen years before the war began. During the next development was rapid, but science can undoubtedly do much more for submarine navigation if science is given the unholy chance.

Bigger and bigger submarines, more and more powerful mines would succeed each other in rapid succession. Every year would see the exceptional and development of improvements in submarine attack and submarine defence. It is a thing of limitless possibilities. Merchant craft, of course, would have to undergo special modifications. They would probably have to become submersible and therefore much dearer to build and to run. That would mean high freights and dearer commodities.

There are those who think that we can attain to self-containment in Britain. It is an idle dream. Nature has not been very kind to us in respect of soil and materials. Our growing population demands an ever-increasing flow of imports. A self-contained Britain is a practical impossibility. We must not forget that we have to provide for an ever-increasing population.

And there is the life side of the problem. It is a dreadful form of warfare which science has inflicted upon men through the submarine. It is a terrible use of good gifts of intellect to make them serve as cruel a purpose.

The revolt of the heart which we all experience in thinking of submarine warfare is a good and proper thing. It is a base sport, the underwater hunting of ships, and it, is a rat's death—the final plunge and the waiting—the dreadful wailing. Dear women did not bear sons for such an end.

I am told, but I will not believe it, that there are some naval officers who desire to see the submarine perpetuated—who are averse from the proposal that all submarines should be destroyed and no more made anywhere in the world. In such there—let the public know the reasons. What can be adduced to make it certain in the world a deadly danger which is especially a menace to a people living with a gigantic population?

Either the submarine must disappear after a brief discreditable history, or the world passes on to new chapters of horror bought at the price of constant and unavailing sacrifice in peace.

EDWARDS TO SPEAK AT MALDEN SUNDAY

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards of the Department of the Northeast will speak at the Malden Auditorium Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock under the auspices of the Daughters of the Nation of Malden-Everett. Revere and Belle Isle Council Edwards had arranged to speak in Malden some weeks ago, but the meeting was postponed owing to the death of his brother in Cleveland.

FIREMAN SAVES WOMAN IN ROXBURY BLAZE

Fireman Dan O'Leary of Engine No. 37 rescued a woman who was partly overcome by smoke on the inside door of a wooden house located at No. 51 Fenwood road, Roxbury, early today. James Moody discovered the fire when he awoke. He aroused his mother and sister, also Jane J. Dwyer and six others living on the floors above. The building was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

BOLSHEVIK TROOPS OCCUPY KOVNO

Copenhagen, Feb. 12.—Bolshevik troops have again occupied Kovno in Lithuania. News to this effect was received from Cracow today. Bolshevik forces are expected to occupy Grodno and Bialystock as soon as the Germans have evacuated these places

HELD AS 'SILVER BURGLAR,' ALSO JAIL-BREAKER

Martin K. Olson Under Arrest After Chain of Breaks in Greater City

Martin K. Olson, alias "Mervin" of Woodrow avenue, Dorchester, said to be Greater Boston's "Silver Burglar" and to whom the police credit the disappearance of thousands of dollars worth of silverware from fashionable residences in and around Boston, is under arrest by the police of Station 11, Dorchester.

While patrolling his beat on Pleasant street, Dorchester, officer Flynn noticed a man in an alleyway acting suspiciously. He surprised the man, who reeked of drunkenness. Flynn placed him under arrest.

When searched several pawn tickets for silverware left in Boston shops were found in his pockets.

A long criminal record has long been wanted by the police for breaking jail at North Cambridge prison after arrest on a burglary charge. When the lieutenant in charge at Station 11 drew admission from Olson that he was also called Mervin, the State police were notified. State Officer William M. Robinson was sent to the station and identified the man as the one who broke jail at North Adams.

The police say Olson is wanted for the larceny of silverware from wealthy families in Braintree, Walpole, Brookline, Milton and Waltham.

A trunkful of silver, recovered from various robberies, is at police headquarters awaiting identification by owners.

CHARGES CITY COUNCIL OF LYNN IS "BIGOTED"

Lynn, Feb. 12—The City Council was accused of being "Prussianized, narrow minded and bigoted" in a letter received by Irving H. Hobbs of No. 43 New Park road, read at the Common Council meeting. The meeting was rife with personalities, all brought out by a case of Miss Caroline Horbauer, a German, teacher in the Classical High School, whose salary has been held up for three months by the City Council. After the reading of the letter, Councilor Pyne attacked James M. Hooper, of the school committee, as the man who had caused the appeal to be heard. Pyne said the school committee had been "mentally dead for years." After the meeting Hooper and Pyne began a personal argument, which ended when Patrol Wagon Driver Dorsey ordered to be called on to submit proofs of his statements.

Good for 10 Cents Each

On the front of every Jiffy-Jell package there appears this JJ trade-mark. Every such trade-mark which a woman cuts out and sends us this week will be accepted as 10 cents in payment for aluminum molds which we picture below. Send all you wish—one trade-mark or fifty. You can buy one of these molds or buy all of the molds with them. But for this week only. Get Jiffy-Jell from your grocer. Cut out the front JJ trade-marks only, and mail them to us, stating what molds you want. Send no money. We pay postage on the molds.

Waukesha Pure Food Company, Waukesha, Wisconsin If there is any objection to sending the trade-marks you may send instead the grocer's sales slip which comes with the Jiffy-Jell purchase.

Free Aluminum Molds

To Jiffy-Jell Users—Any Style You Want

This is an offer which we never have made before. It will never be made again. Any housewife may accept it this week, but not afterward.

We supply various molds in pure aluminum to users of Jiffy-Jell. Some are dessert molds, some are salad molds. See the pictures below.

We want every user to have them, but we usually require a remittance. This week we make the Jiffy-Jell trade-marks good for any molds you want.

Anyone may accept this offer. But our object is not to sell Jiffy-Jell to housewives who already know it. It sells itself abundantly to them. Our great object is to induce new homes to try it.

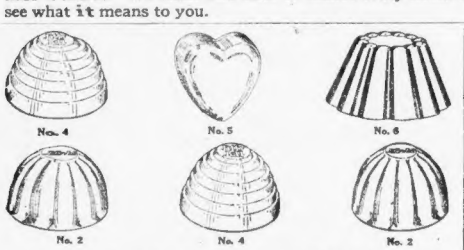
You who don't use Jiffy-Jell are missing a delight. And now—in winter—is when you miss it most. We make this offer to induce every home to try little or much this week. Just see what it means to you.

Here are all sorts of molds made of pure aluminum—molds which last a lifetime. Every home needs them to serve gelatine dainties. This week every trade-mark you cut from the front of a Jiffy-Jell package is good for ten cents on these molds. That is, for each 12½ cents you spend for Jiffy-Jell you get 10 cents back in mold values.

Get what molds you want this week, for this 10-cent offer will not appear again. The Jiffy-Jell will bring you such fruity desserts and salads as you never knew before. And the molds will be of life-long service to you.

Cut just one trade-mark from a package—just the front J J. Send the trade-marks to us without any money, stating what mold or molds you want. But send them this week—next week will not do.

Waukesha Pure Food Company, Waukesha, Wisconsin

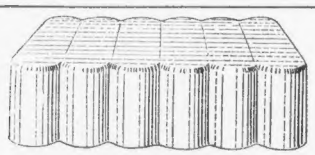


Individual Dessert Molds

These dessert molds in assorted styles are made of pure aluminum. Six of them will serve a full package of Jiffy-Jell.

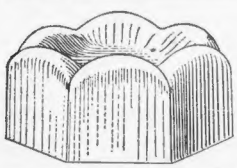
We advise getting six if you can. We send the assorted styles. But you can send one trade-mark and get one mold if you wish. Or get twelve.

Value 10c each—60c per set of six. Send one J J trade-mark for each of these molds you order.



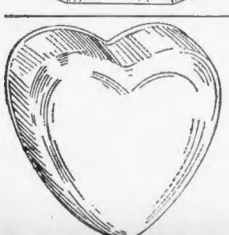
Vegetable Salad Mold—Style D

Made of pure aluminum. It holds a six-portion salad, one pint, made with one package of Jiffy-Jell with cooked or uncooked vegetables mixed in. The six indentations mark out six individual salads. Value 50c. Send five J J trade-marks for it.



Fruit Salad Mold—Style E

Made of pure aluminum. It holds a one-pint salad made with one package of Jiffy-Jell mixed with fruits. Can also be used for a dessert mold. The six pinnacles mark six individual servings. Value 50c. Send five of the J J trade-marks for it.



Heart Shape Pint Size Dessert Mold—Style B

Made of pure aluminum. Holds a one-pint dessert made from one package of Jiffy-Jell—enough for six servings.

We also have a pint dessert mold in fluted form, if you prefer.

Value 50c each. Send five of the J J trade-marks for either of these pint molds, stating which style you prefer.

Jiffy-Jell

For Desserts and Salads

The New-Style Gelatine Dainty

All These Fruits in Essence Form in Vials

Real-Fruit Dainties

Note that Jiffy-Jell is not like old-style gelatine desserts.

Jiffy-Jell flavors are essences, made from the fresh, ripe fruits. They are made by condensing fruit juices, so a great deal of fruit flavor comes in a small bottle.

These fruit essences come sealed in glass—a bottle in each package. So they keep their strength and freshness.

A Wealth of Fruit

Jiffy-Jell flavors are abundant. We use half a Pineapple to make the vial of flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert. We use 65 Loganberries to flavor another.

So Jiffy-Jell desserts taste like fresh-fruit dainties. They are fruit dainties, with all the healthfulness, all the delights of fruit. They are the same as though you used the freshly-picked fruit itself.

12½ Cents Per Dinner

A package of Jiffy-Jell serves six people in mold form, or 12 if you whip the jell. All for 12½ cents.

Think what that means in midwinter—now when fruits are high and scarce, and when you need them most. There is no other way to get real-fruit desserts at anywhere near this cost.

Jiffy-Jell comes ready-sweetened. It is properly colored and acidulated. So you simply add boiling water, then the flavor from the vial, and let it cool.

You can, of course, add whipped cream if you wish, or chocolate, nuts or fruit. But Jiffy-Jell alone is delicious, because of its wealth of fruit flavor.

Just Find It Out

Jiffy-Jell will surprise you. It will give you a new conception of quick gelatine dainties. Try it this week under this offer. Even one package will open the way to a thousand delightful dinners.

Sun-Maid Raisins With Jiffy-Jell

Fresh-Fruit Desserts

Loganberry and Pineapple are two premier dessert flavors. Lime and Mint make zestful salad and garnish jells. Include these four flavors in your selection.

Loganberry Queen of Berry Flavors

Also Salad Jells Garnish Jell

Mint flavor—made from mint leaves—makes a refreshing garnish jell to serve with roast lamb or cold meats. You will like it far better than mint sauce.

A Favorite

Lime Jiffy-Jell — flavored from lime fruit — makes a tart, green salad jell. Serve with your salads or mix the salads in before cooling. Use cooked or uncooked vegetables. Left-overs can be made enticing in this way. Or mix in meat scraps and make a delicious meat loaf — meat in aspic.

Try Jiffy-Jell in the forms which we suggest. Compare it with the old-style gelatine desserts and salads. Learn how much these bottled fruit essences add.

We promise you a delightful revelation.

Try it this week while these offers are open. Then the trade-mark on the front of each package will be worth 10 cents in getting these aluminum molds.

1,500,000 ASK 6 MONTHS' PAY FOR SOLDIERS

Nearly one million and a half signatures in the nation and over 183,000 in New England is the record to date of the six months pay for soldiers petition appearing daily in the Boston American and other Hearst newspapers.

The great army of approval

This petition will soon be sent to Secretary of War Baker, but in the meantime thousands of names are being added, and many thousands more can be added before the great petition reaches him.

Many wives and mothers of service men know what want is to judge from the letters which they write describing conditions.

While the Soldiers' Service Bureau is making every effort to place such cases in jobs offering suitable remuneration, there are not enough jobs to go around, and hundreds of soldiers are finding out after seeking vainly for three or four weeks. This furnishes one good reason, although not the best one, why the soldiers should receive the financial assistance which the adoption of this plan would mean.

Despite the present inability of many service men to pay debts contracted before entering the service, there are a few unscrupulous merchants who are willing to take advantage of them and seize musical instruments or furniture as property, because payments are deferred.

The legal department of the Soldiers' Service Bureau has given aid in such cases as these, preventing the loss of furniture or property and in securing an extension of time in which to make payments. The government has thrown a mantle of protection around men in the service, but this is sometimes disregarded by a few merchants, until the request of the ex-soldier or ex-sailor is backed up by lawyers with the force of a great newspaper behind them.

The hundreds of letters arriving every day asking for the location of units are answered as fast as time and space will permit.

Soldiers' Service Bureau Answers All Queries from Relatives and Friends

The Soldiers' Service Bureau of the Boston American is dedicated to the purpose of doing things for the soldiers and sailors of Uncle Sam. It is for officers and men alike. Answers to questions will be published in the American daily, and many personal services will be done for the soldiers and sailors as stated below.

The department is not merely operated as a question and answer column. It is co-operating with similar departments in Hearst's New York American, Chicago Examiner, Atlanta Georgian, San Francisco Examiner and Los Angeles Examiner. The headquarters is in Washington.

Attorneys will answer questions of a legal nature and undertake many kinds of legal work in the courts for officers and enlisted men in behalf of the Boston American and its associated Hearst newspapers.

Please write any suggestion you have for widening the activities of this department.

Many requests for information concerning soldiers in France have been received, but with insufficient information. With the vast number of men overseas, and innumerable units in various branches, it is impossible to give an intelligent answer unless the inquiry is complete, with company number, branch of service, etc. Adhering to this will facilitate earlier attention to letters received by this department.

Address all communications to Soldiers' Service Bureau, Boston American, No. 10 Summer street, Boston. Letters marked "confidential" will be so treated. Men of the army and navy, let us help you.

Persons finding the discharge papers of soldiers or sailors should make every effort to return them to their owners. A discharge paper cannot be duplicated. The War Department can only issue a certificate that the discharge has been given. Frequently the owner loses his original.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and the hair falls; some of it pulls out easily, and the scalp shows dandruff. Get a small bottle of Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter, take a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After several applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.—Advertisement.

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

Give Fruit Laxative when cross, bilious, feverish or constipated.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing give them delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, yet gentle. Millions of mothers keep the harmless fruit laxative handy because they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

These City Physicians Explain Why They Prescribe Nuxated Iron

TO MAKE HEALTHIER WOMEN and STRONGER, STURDIER MEN

Now Being Used By Over Three Million People Annually.

By enriching the blood and creating thousands of new red blood cells, it often quickly transforms the flabby flesh, toneless tissue and pallid cheeks, of weak, anaemic men and women into a glow of health. Increases the strength of delicate, nervous, run-down folks in two weeks' time in many instances.

It is unquestionably estimated that over three million people annually in this country alone are taking Nuxated Iron, both the beneficial results have been reported from its use, both by doctors and patients, but a number of physicians in various parts of the country have been asked to explain why they prescribe or recommend organic iron (Nuxated Iron) in preference to the many inorganic kinds which were obtained from the old forms of drugging.

Extracts from some of the letters received are given below.

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, says: "I can see no reason why so many pale, weak, run-down women and anaemic men and women do not take Nuxated Iron and enrich the blood, create new red blood cells and thereby put roses in their cheeks. I have repeatedly explained the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard looking patients."

Dr. A. J. Newman, late Police Surgeon of the City of Chicago and former House Surgeon, Jefferson Park Hospital, Chicago, in commenting on Nuxated Iron, says: "This remedy has proven itself to my own satisfaction in many cases to be a most potent tonic, and I have no hesitancy in recommending it to my professional brethren. Many of my patients, after using Nuxated Iron for a reasonable length of time, have gained in strength, power and endurance, and have entirely recovered from their nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness and other ailments."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital, Outdoor Department, New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, says: "In my opinion, based upon a careful examination of the formula of Nuxated Iron, I do not hesitate to prescribe it to any physician or practitioner who should ask me about it. In fact, it is the only preparation of iron that I have personally used in my own practice that has given me entirely satisfactory results. I have used many of the so-called organic iron preparations known to the medical profession, but I will say that I have never found any preparation that will increase the red blood corpuscles and enrich and strengthen the blood as quickly as Nuxated Iron."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, formerly Visiting Physician at St. Elizabeth's Hospital of New York City, said: "I have never before given a medicine which has produced such results as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I must make an exception to my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my family with most surprising and satisfactory results."

Dr. T. Alphonso Wallace, a physician of many years' experience and formerly of the British Naval Medical Service, says: "I do not make a practice of recommending advertised medicinal products, but I have found Nuxated Iron of potent influence in nervous, run-down conditions and would advise its use in all cases of weakness and debility. I believe all should know of it. If people would only take Nuxated Iron when they first feel themselves slipping down hill, many serious sicknesses with their humiliating drugs, stimulants and consequent expense could be avoided. Nuxated Iron is wonderful in its power to quickly build their red blood corpuscles, increase their physical and mental endurance and vitality, and in a condition to ward off the millions of disease germs that are almost continually around us. It is surprising how many people suffer from iron deficiency and do not know it.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how far you can walk briskly or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Then take two five grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for four weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

What Nuxated Iron Is Made From

Sworn Statement of The Composition of Its Formula.

A copy of the actual sworn statement will be found printed in full below, duly signed, etc. It is as follows:

[illegible] Dr. Dujardin-Beaumetz, Hygienic Therapeutics, Paris; Dr. Gilbert, Professor of Therapeutics, Paris; Dr. Lancereaux, Paris; Dr. Bouchut, Paris; Dr. Dujardin-Beaumetz, Paris; Dr. Germain Sée, Paris; Dr. Jolyet, Professor of Therapeutics, Bordeaux; Dr. Lorain, Paris; Dr. Lecorché, Paris; Dr. Jaccoud, Paris; Dr. Peter, Paris; Dr. Woillez, Paris; Dr. Gubler, Paris; Dr. Hardy, Paris; Dr. Trousseau, Paris; Dr. Potain, Paris; Dr. Fonssagrives, Paris; Dr. Empis, Paris; Dr. Rabuteau, Paris; Dr. Béhier, Paris; Dr. Hérard, Paris; Dr. Cornil, Paris; Dr. Axenfeld, Paris; Dr. Huchard, Paris; Dr. Bucquoy, Paris; Dr. Dieulafoy, Paris; Dr. Brissaud, Paris; Dr. Landouzy, Paris; Dr. Debove, Paris; Dr. Achard, Paris; Dr. Rendu, Paris; Dr. Widal, Paris; Dr. Laveran, Paris; Dr. Letulle, Paris; Dr. Pinard, Paris; Dr. Budin, Paris; Dr. Tarnier, Paris; Dr. Chantemesse, Paris; Dr. Vaquez, Paris; Dr. Lemoine, Lille; Dr. Combemale, Lille; Dr. Thiercelin, Paris; Dr. Hutinel, Paris; Dr. Grancher, Paris; Dr. Marfan, Paris; Dr. Comby, Paris; Dr. Netter, Paris; Dr. Variot, Paris; Dr. Chauffard, Paris; Dr. Roger, Paris; Dr. Weill, Lyons; Dr. Mosny, Paris; Dr. Gilles de la Tourette, Paris; Dr. Dopter, Paris; Dr. Sevestre, Paris; Dr. Babinski, Paris; Dr. Joffroy, Paris; Dr. Achille Foville, Paris; Dr. Cotard, Paris; Dr. Chaslin, Paris; Dr. Raymond, Paris; Dr. Arnaud, Marseilles; Dr. Marie, Paris; Dr. Ballet, Paris; Dr. Dejerine, Paris; Dr. Mirallié, Paris; Dr. Pierre Marie, Paris; Dr. Guinon, Paris; Dr. Bernard, Paris; Dr. Kelsch, Marseilles; Dr. Kien, Marseilles; Dr. Villaret, Paris; Dr. P. C. Gaussail, Montpellier; Dr. Francis, C.M.G.

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of organic peptonate of iron, a substance which in our opinion possesses superior qualities as a tonic and blood builder, and which is one of the constituents of iron which have been used by the medical profession for many years. Each dose of Nuxated Iron also contains one-half grain of nuclein, which we could have accomplished the building of iron into nuclein by the process employed in the human body, but this would have required from two to three months' time. Nuclein is a substance obtained from the cell nuclei of yeast, and is especially valuable because of its tonic properties, as glycerophosphates are said to contain a large percentage of organic phosphorus, which is found in the nerve and brain cells of the body. Each dose of Nuxated Iron also contains one-tenth grain of Nuxated Iron from which Cacodylate and Glycerophosphates are very commonly prescribed with iron by most other tablets.

Under such circumstances the temptation to substitute a cheap, inorganic iron for Nuxated Iron is very great and the public is hereby warned to insist upon having Nuxated Iron when they call for it. We guarantee that Nuxated Iron, as made in Paris, London and formerly in U. S. A., will contain no poisonous metals, and that no matter what forms of iron without express, this does not prove that Nuxated Iron is not the best. We guarantee Nuxated Iron to every purchaser or your money will be refunded.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended alone by physicians is not a secret remedy but one which is widely known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the many inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make one constipated, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful results, entire satisfaction or your money back, and as they will refund your money if it does not do as claimed in this city by all good druggists.

Set Your Imagination Tingling!

Imagination is man's most precious gift. It is the real difference between him and the lower animals.

The lovable, intelligent little skunk in Charles G. D. Roberts' great animal story in March Cosmopolitan knew only enough to protect himself from prowling enemies, and to provide for himself and his family—he had no imagination.

You can use your imagination, make the most of it, and through it rise to heights of greater achievement. The greatest stimulus to the imagination is the reading of great fiction.

And great fiction is fiction by writers who know life, who understand it, and who have the gift of conveying their thoughts and their ideas to you through great stories and novels.

Because America is a big, ambitious, imaginative nation, she gives her greatest literary and pecuniary rewards to her story-tellers. America's favorite magazine is naturally the one that gives her the best work of the greatest writers.

That is why more than a million Americans buy Cosmopolitan every month, paying for it at its full price—why the American people pay a quarter of a million dollars a month for the privilege of reading Cosmopolitan—which is more than they pay for any other magazine.

And you who read this can get from Cosmopolitan the same mental stimulus, the same entertainment, and the same inspiration that each one of Cosmopolitan's million, month after month, finds between its covers. You can read, in the March number, a wonderful story by Fannie Hurst, who writes of common people in an uncommon way.

There are novels by Galsworthy, Chambers, and Merwin, each written on a different theme in a different style, but each telling of a phase of life which will interest and inspire you.

You will find a most entertaining short story by E. Phillips Oppenheim, inspiring articles by Judge Ben B. Lindsey and Herbert Kaufman, and a special feature by Edith Wharton, one of the greatest novelists of today.

Other world-famous contributors in this issue are Jack London, Charles G. D. Roberts, George Randolph Chester, Donn Byrne, Roland Pertwee, and Mary Carolyn Davies.

These writers are all great—what they write is literature—the best literature of today for the largest and most responsive audience of readers ever gathered in the history of magazine publishing.

TONIGHT, on your way home, get your March Cosmopolitan and then this evening join America's splendid fiction-loving million and spend a few hours in the distinguished company of the world's great writers and great artists.

RINGGOLD, GEORGIA, MAN WRITES

A Ringgold letter about the benefits received from using Sulphurio Tablets. Its writer, are the gratifying results of sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses. But the ingredients of Sulphurio, cream of tartar and herbs, in a concentrated, tablet form, are far more effective than the old fashioned way and are pleasant to take.

Mr. ——— writes: "I have had an awful case of skin eruptions, and kept on getting worse. I doctored with several temporary relief. I saw an advertisement of Sulphurio Tablets and sent for a box. Before using them I was a mass of sores. Now I am entirely well. I have taken only one box of Sulphurio Tablets and they have done me more good than all the medicine I have taken in the last two years."

Sulphurio Tablets are also good for pimples, blackheads, sallow skin, liver spots, bad blood, constipation and headaches. Sulphurio Tablets are sold by druggists everywhere, 50 cents per box. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 50 cents to Sulphurio Tablets, Inc., 1133 Broadway, New York City, and a box will be sent you postpaid.—Advertisement.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad complexion or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver troubles, so no sickness or pain after taking them.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How to Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds

You feel like it a few moments. Your head is heavy and full of pain. Your clogged nostrils will open. Your passages breathe freely. Your head and throat no longer stuffed. Your cold or catarrh disappears. No more hawking, snuffling, sneezing, dryness, headache, dullness, no more struggling for breath, hawking, spitting, raw throat, stopped-up nose, nasty discharges, offensive breath, no more sniffling and blowing, no more pain, soreness, dullness, no more mucous dropping into throat, no more of those miserable nights. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of it through your nostrils and it penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing, healing, cleansing the inflamed, swollen mucous membranes, and relief comes instantly.

Don't suffer! Don't snuffle and blow and disturb others. Don't use sprays, douches, inhalers or smelling salts. They are unnecessary. Just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm and use it as directed and you will wonder what became of your cold or catarrh or hay fever. It is just magical. Advertisement.

PEGGY PATES, the little French maid in "The Better 'Ole" at the Hollis.

By FRED J. McISAAC.

This is an interview with Peggy Pates.

If you have seen "The Better 'Ole" you remember Susanne, the little French sweetheart of Old Bill, who served his British soldiers at the Inn and sings an impudent little song, and then disappears from the entertainment.

Susanne is Peggy Pates off the boards. I met her behind the scenes at the Hollis during the second act when cannons were roaring and the din of battle made conversation difficult.

All around us grim looking soldiers were moving about in the semi darkness, giving the atmosphere even being the strains of war.

Miss Pates and I sat upon a huge wardrobe trunk and got acquainted.

"Some of those fellows look like the real thing," I remarked nodding toward the men in khaki.

"Some of them are," replied the little actress whose feet were a long ways from the floor. "Lots of our boys saw service at one time or another during the war. You know just as large a proportion of actors went to the front as any other profession."

"Tell me something about yourself," I suggested. "Who are you?"

"I'm Peggy Pates," replied the young woman. "I'm not much of anybody yet, but I have ambitions."

"Tell me about them."

"Well, I succeeded May Thompson in the dancing and singing role of 'You're in Love' and was out in that last season. I took this little part just come to Boston because I wanted to stay in one place long enough to seriously study singing.

"I haven't any designs on Mary Gardner's job, but I am told I have a nice little voice which can be developed so that I can sing the best ingenue part in musical comedy. You never can be too rich in experience."

"Why?"

"Why, you imagine me doing Lady Macbeth or Isabel Miss Pates."

I took at her plump little, pretty little self and chuckled.

"Not any danger as I might get fat. I am getting very hard not fun and exercising, dancing, taking long walks and doing everything everybody tells me.

"Are you losing weight?"

"I'm holding my own," replied Miss Pates.

"Just then a barrel rose the back way of the stage to show up with a terrific din.

"That's the bridge. You will have just shown it up," explained Miss Pates. "War is awful noisy, isn't it? So I helped her down off the truck and she went away.

"SIMPLICITY" IS FULL OF GOOD TUNES

By FRED J. McISAAC.

Whoever picked out the title for "Little Simplicity" at the Wilbur ought to be presented with a caraway seed cake or a cinnamon bun. The idea of sticking a "Da-da, Google" label upon an entertainment which should be inscribed as "Do-La-La."

For Miss Simplicity, taken by and large, as they say at the Peace Conference, is a pretty good show. The first act is slow moving, and not amusing as a comic supplement, but the second is much brighter and snappier, while the third is really a lively entertainment. If they had only written a fourth act, wouldn't it have been great?

Rida Johnson Young is responsible for the book, Augustus Barratt wrote the music, and you have got to give them credit. His tunes are first-class from start to finish, while the orchestration is particularly graceful and dainty.

Glancing over the above it seems to me that I am writing the way Walter Catlett talks. You see, Walter Catlett supplies the mirth and jollity, and his methods are a bit debonair, not to say flippant.

Catlett will be remembered by those who saw "Her Own Lotty" as the sporty husband with the inflammable vest. In "Little Simplicity" he first leaves in sight as a college professor of slovenly appearance. He doesn't become his natty self until the last act when, as a K. of C. necessary, he is an glib and effervescent as of yore.

And by the way. That last act takes place in the war zone, on one side of the stage is a K. of C. hut, on the other a Salvation Army canteen. Nowhere in sight is the Y. M. C. A., but in the middle distance, about half way up the backdrop of "No Man's Land," there is a shell hole. Perhaps that's what became of it.

"Little Simplicity"—I can excuse some woman of selecting that title. It sounds feminine. Maybe it was Miss Young, the author. If it was it is the first time an author's title really got into the electric lights. Anyway "Little Simplicity" is the nickname of a charming girl who is to be discovered selling flowers in a French cafe in Tunis. She is adopted by a quartet of students from the Latin quarter, along with a rather pert pery damsel named Lulu and conveyed to Paris. There she becomes more beautiful and is fallen in love with by our hero, Carl Gantvoort, one of the best baritones and worst actors upon the musical comedy stage.

Walter Catlett gets the laser lily named Lulu, and it serves him right. The happiness of the quartet is deferred until they have a chance to appear in military costumes in the last act.

Marjorie Gateson, as Lulu, was sufficiently passionate and irritable. She has a lot of personality and sings and dances very competently. Those two beautiful and sinful dancers, the Cameron sisters, helped make things bright, while Mabel Withee was sufficiently ingenuous and sweet for the little part.

YOU'LL LAUGH! DOESN'T HURT TO LIFT CORNS OUT

Magic! Costs few cents! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the bothersome corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug!

Try Freezone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the mysterious ether discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius. Great!—Advertisement.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To last as long as the proverbial riddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headachey, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, sour breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to restore the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate is inexpensive and any druggist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, sweetens and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.—Advertisement.

PIANO SALE

Save $100

BEST MAKES--LOWEST PRICES--BEST TERMS

BIG business men marvel at the wonderful success of my piano sales and ask me why I always run sales, week in and week out—no letup. They ask me if I ever get the regular price on any piano and why I always cut prices in season and out.

My answer is contained in my selling policy. Sell the same piano lower than anyone else and give better terms, today, tomorrow, always—

If I asked the regular prices on pianos, should I expect people to buy from me?

NO indeed, the people like to save money and they dislike to pay full price on any make piano, and they know that they don't have to when they buy at my sales.

NEW UPRIGHTS AND PLAYERS AT CUT PRICES

Let me stop running sales and just that minute I stop doing business—the people would drop me quickly if I didn't save them money, and lots of it.

ATTEND this sale, look the pianos over, new and used; have my salespeople demonstrate them to you—you don't have to buy—just let me astonish you with my low price on any kind of a piano or player that you have in mind.

Never have I seen such opportunities to get the best pianos at such money-saving prices. The prices and pianos named below are only a few of the wonderful bargains in this sale. I am showing dozens of other fine high-grade well-known makes that are not mentioned in this advertisement. Go where you like, all over Boston or New England, look at all the pianos, then come to me and let me help you to save $100.

SHOT 42 TIMES, DORCHESTER BOY IS GAME

Eugene Sevigny Went to War at 15; Lost an Eye and All That, but Is Cheerful

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Feb. 12.—Forty-two machine gun bullets in his body and not a bone broken.

That's the record of 19-year-old Eugene F. Sevigny, Dorchester, Mass., Lewis machine gunner in the Queen's Westminster Rifles, who is being invalided home from the western front via London.

He's got partial paralysis of the face, is partially deaf and has one eye out, but he's optimistic.

"I'll get a new eye tomorrow, I'll have a pension of six bucks a week, and soon after I throw a kiss to the old Statue of Liberty and land in America, I'll grab a job of some kind," he laughed.

NOTHING BUT A "KID."

"I was a kid of fifteen when I joined the British army in Boston in December, 1914. I went over the top for the first time the following May. We battled away for about four hours and then Fritzie got me, fourteen machine gun bullets in my left thigh and twenty-one in my right. I didn't feel any pain. My legs just crumpled under me.

"They carried me back and dug about thirty machine gun bullets out of my side, the others having passed through. I was back in the line soon and the following August went over the top again. Fritzie's machine guns outnumbered ours six to one and it was tough work.

"Twenty minutes after we went over three men on my gun were knocked off and I got five machine gun bullets through the flesh on the right side of my chest, but wasn't hurt badly and wasn't out of the line long. It was here that we got a new brand of mustard gas that smelled like pineapples. I got a dose of it, but it didn't affect me a bit.

GOT HIS BLIGHTY.

"In July, 1918, I went on a bombing raid. It was a picnic, for we lost only one man, who was taken prisoner, while we killed several Germans.

"It was August 28 at Bullecourt that I got my blighty. I got two machine gun bullets in my arm, but bandaged the wounds and was keeping the Boche busy with my rifle when I was hit by the burst of shrapnel that knocked out my right eye, caused deafness and paralysis on the left side of my face.

"Well, Alf," he grinned in conclusion, "you know what Sherman said."

TO DEMAND ANOTHER RAISE FOR R. R. MEN

Washington, Feb. 12.—That American railway workers will demand in the near future even higher wages than they are now receiving was indicated by A. B. Garretson, representing the "Big Four" railway brotherhoods before the Senate Interstate commerce committee today.

"Labor is entitled to a far better return than it has thus far received," Garretson said.

"If a minimum wage of twenty-five dollars a day were set, labor would be no better off than it is today. The increase would be passed on to the consumer, and in the end each workman's wage would come out of his own pocket."

OFFERS $50,000 FOR FIRST OCEAN FLIGHT

New York, Feb. 12.—"The sum of $50,000 has been offered by a business man of prominence for the privilege of being carried as a mechanic in the first transatlantic flight made in an aeroplane," was the declaration of Henry Woodhouse of the Aero Club of America's Board of Governors, during an address he delivered before the American Geographical Society.

FOOD PRICE DRIVE OF AMERICAN NOW UP TO THE SENATE

and the House, by its silence of opposition, put itself on record as favoring this important investigation.

PUNISHMENT FOR OFFENDER.

The order was introduced by Woodsell F. Thore, the Boston publicist and father of the 48c Ale Pension bill. As reported by the committee and adopted by the House it reads as follows:

Ordered, that the attorney-general be directed to investigate the difference between the retail and the wholesale prices at present charged for articles of food sold in this Commonwealth. If no bids or unreasonable discrepancies to exist between said wholesale and retail prices, and that the present high prices demanded for such articles at retail have been brought about wholly or partly through violation of any law against combinations or otherwise, he is hereby directed to bring such prosecutions as he may think necessary to punish the offenders.

PROFITEERS SOUGHT.

If this order is adopted by the House it will put in motion a probe by the legal department of the State. The federal authorities of this district are already investigating food prices and complaints of profiteering.

The federal investigation was ordered by United States District-Attorney Thomas J. Boynton upon information furnished by the American. It is in immediate charge of Assistant United States District-Attorney Daniel A. Shea, who has agents now scouting the wholesale and retail food field.

EGGS ARE LOWER.

The wholesale price of fresh eggs (fancy hennery and Eastern extra) dropped to 45-50 cents on the Boston Fruit & Produce Exchange today. This was a falling off of four cents on the inside price and two cents on the outside price from Tuesday's wholesale quotations of 49-52.

On account of the market holiday in Chicago there were no quotations listed on Western eggs nor on lard.

The print and tub butter prices remained firm at 50 for the former and 49 for the latter.

The new wholesale quotations today on fresh eggs showed a total drop of 14 cents on the inside price and 12 cents on the outside price per dozen since the quotations of Tuesday, Jan. 28, of 62 cents per dozen.

Retail prices showed few changes today from yesterday on butter, eggs, cheese and lard. They held the same at stores which have been quoted daily in Dorchester, Cambridge, Melrose, Roxbury, East Boston, Chelsea, Coolidge Corner and South Boston.

In Jamaica Plain tub butter was quoted down three cents to 51.

A Faneuil Hall market, which raised its retail price of pure lard a cent yesterday to 32, went up another cent today to 32.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush the kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

CANNING OF HEINIE WAGNER NO HIT WITH SOX FANS

By NICK FLATLEY.

WE hate to seem critical, but —. Most of the war heroes having been cast into the discard, it now becomes Heinie Wagner's turn to depart from the Red Sox. Heinie, of course, wasn't a valuable asset. He was only so good that Bill Carrigan admitted in the good old days that he couldn't get along without Heinie. Even this Winter "Bill" said so. Jack Barry told the world that Wagner was his ace in the hole that time he (Barry) was managing.

Heinie was admittedly Barrows' best adviser while the Sox were winning the pennant last season. He was sent out after Babe Ruth when the Battering one quit the team, and brought him back. He wasn't of much more use, all in all, than the doughboys were to the Allies.

But baseball evidently has come upon hard times. Probably Heinie was too valuable for the season that's shortly to dawn. With Barry in the role of a mere player, looper out of it, as you can bet your income tax he will be, and Wagner fired, the brains of the well-known Red Sox are very likely to be missing in 1919. And, without brains, the Sox will finish just where the Germans did—going back.

We are willing to tell the world right now that George Washington Grant has the greatest chance to make the Braves popular that ever a magnate had. The Red Sox favorites are being let out, or sold. What regulars still remain on the roster have not, as yet, been satisfied. Furthermore, Stuffy McInnis and Babe Ruth.

Stuffy insists he will not sign until he gets the bonus that was offered him to play third base; Babe declares he will not get in until the figure of his contract at least resembles what he's worth. Both Stuffy and Babe have winning arguments. If they have sense enough to stick it out they will get what they want.

Meantime, George Washington Grant, by signing up a few real, regular ball players can make himself the real ace with Boston fandom.

Secretary Lane Has Also Passed Into Discard.

WHICH calls to mind also that Johnny Lane, now a pay clerk in the navy, wearer of two gold service chevrons on his right sleeve, master gunner on a transport during the hectic days of troop convoying, is out of a non-service job.

C. P. O. Johnny left the Sox to go into the navy, right after we entered the war. He was headed for a commission when he pried himself into a furlough two years ago, and handled the Sox arrangements for the World's Series. Johnny certainly should at least get his secretarial job back.

But has he? He has not. After the armistice, when his ship had brought a bunch of doughboys back, he applied to the club owner, wanting to find out when he should ask for release and get his position back. He was informed that he wasn't required any more. And he was the one and only Boston Individual in the office force of the champion Boston team.

Ex-Secretary Lane, who is now awaiting orders to report somewhere in the navy, might spend his spare time forming a Boston service alumni. For a starter, he could get Duffy Lewis, Ernie Shore, Jack Bentley, Harold Janvrin and a few more lined up.

And he certainly would have them rooting for Hank Gowdy, Rabbit Maranville and a dozen other Braves, who will wear Boston suits in 1919. As we have said, George Washington Grant has stumbled right into a glorious opportunity.

Coffey and Levinsky at Armory Tonight.

GETTING back to real fights, however, it is this evening that Battling Levinsky and Rosscommon Jim Coffey pummel each other at the Grand Opera House. Mat and Jim are two of the chaps who satisfy the desires of the general run of fight fans. Big fellows and good punchers, the fans know that if either lands a solid wallop a side of the building is likely to be knocked out by the other fellow.

Mat and Jim fought here before, twelve rounds of good milling. They have been reared up a long time now, and tonight should perform as they did before they learned that boxing was merely a way of getting easy money. Those days have passed, and the times demand real scraps. Mat and Jim are both "coming back" to get in on the boom in the ring game.

The preliminaries, too, will furnish plenty of excitement, especially the one between Toffy Leahy and Willie Coogan. This pair, who battled to a draw a few weeks back, still have the championship of that dear South Boston to settle.

Whereat it might be mentioned that the A. A. A. is trying hard to provide good battles. Next Tuesday Paul Doyle and Fred Dyer meet, and the week after Charley Parker and Harry Carlson go to it. Once Charley puts Harry out of the way—as he should—he will be on the rond to battles with the real fighters.

HUGH DUFFY PUTS HIS BATTERIES OVER JUMPS

Eight varsity and six freshmen batteries are working out under Coach Hugh Duffy in Harvard's baseball cage. Among the upper class pitchers are Stan Johnson, Babe Pelton, Charley Butterfield and Fred Cady. Tom Gormack, who batted over .300 last season, and Austin Blair, are the huskiest of the catchers.

New Bowling Record

Denver, Col., Feb. 12.—Tony Hidahl and James Ryan, bowling here in the State tournament that opened here last night, hung up a new American record for doubles with 1,363 pins.

Exeter Elects Cantilon

Exeter, N. H., Feb. 12.—William D. Cantillon, '21, has been elected captain of next year's Exeter hockey team.

TWO AND THREE

PUTTING THE NEXT ONE OVER WITH "BUGS" BAER.

THE works are upside down like a Chinese proclamation. Down in Washington, which is the President's home when he's home, a swarm of Boy Scouts busted up a suffrage convention. In the old days, when razor strops were sometimes used on razors, little boys were supposed to be scenery and not heard. It would make grandma's knitting needles click in their mausoleum if she could have toured her nearsighted lamps on a school of minnow-sized Boy Scouts, putting the dampers on a suffragette meeting. They didn't have Boy Scouts when grandma was a flapper. In her day, lil' boys were something that you aimed soap at.

If you are going to get technical, they didn't have any suffragettes, either, when grandmom was a salamander. In those days no lady chewed tobacco in public. A wife's place was with the husband. Her own, if possible. No lady would vote the straight Republican ticket because she knew the Republicans weren't straight. As for the Democrats, if a lady saw one coming by, she would hide her features in a kettle of suds until he was hull down on the horizon.

THIS fighting business with the eight-ounce mittens is something else that would have staked the old Jane to a pain in the bonnet.

In her time fighting was something that was smoothed over the next morning by the Judge in the Court of Domestic Relations.

If grandpop rattled home with one shoulder higher than the other and his feet walking in two different directions, grandmere would burnish up his left back collar button with a three-pound rolling pin. The old fellow might try to wrap the violets on the parlor lamp around her neck for a bouquet. But those battles were strictly amateur. Folks didn't grab off $127,500 for throwing knuckles at each other.

FIGHTING was legal in those days, because the neighborhood cop knew wiser than to horn into a family shindig. But folks didn't battle out in a ring before a lot of strangers.

People fought in the house like gentlemen.

If a man thought he was a better man than some other sapp, they would jump on each other's hats while their heads were still inside of 'em, click their heels together and wade in. When it got too deep to wade they would swim. First they would change the boundary lines on each other's maps, kick each other's shins into Japanese toothpicks and knock one another's teeth so far and wide that travelers still use 'em for milestones on the Boston Road. From there they would gradually work up to the climax.

After each man had enough, their widows would add three acts to that little prologue and make it a real show.

But now. Sweet biscuits! A nowadays fighter makes a prima donna look like a yegg. A modern battler is a canary in an eagle's nest. They won't fight unless they grab all the velvet in the works. And then they won't. When they argued the articles in the old days, the fight managers would open enough champagne to swim across. The Willard-Dempsey articles were signed on the Weehawken ferryboat.

HARVARD RELAY SQUAD IN FIELD FOR OPPONENT

Harvard is on the lookout for a relay opponent at Saturday night's service meet in the East Armory. The run originally booked with Tech has been cancelled, as the Engineers prefer to run a short relay, while Harvard desires the longer distance, as training to prepare for its clash with Yale at the B. A. A. meet next month.

While Dennis O'Connell, Harvard's crack half-miler, will not be eligible for Winter competition, he has agreed to wear the colors of the B. A. A.

PAUL MARTINSON AIMS TO WORRY JOE STECHER

It is Paul Martinson's claim he has a check for Joe Stecher's celebrated toe hold and will prove it in their match at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night. Martinson comes highly touted and must be given a good chance to hold his own, or at least make a good showing, with the renowned Westerner. The preliminaries will be up to the Tuohey standard.

DONE WITH BASEBALL PLANK DECLARES

New York, Feb. 12.—Eddie Plank, the veteran southpaw, is lost to the Yankees and baseball for all time. Plank's unsigned contract with a letter telling of his determination to stay in retirement has been received at Yankee headquarters, it was announced today.

RICKARD IS TO INSURE DEMPSEY FOR $50,000

New York, Feb. 12.—Tex Rickard has made arrangements to take out $50,000 insurance on Jack Dempsey as a safeguard against accident to the fighter who is scheduled to meet Jess Willard July 4.

HINGHAM STATION BOYS PUT ON SHOW TONIGHT

Six boxing bouts, with a wrestling set-to opening festivities, form tonight's sport show at the Hingham Naval Training Station. Chief Howard Morrow, formerly of the U. S. S. New Jersey, and holder of the light heavyweight championship of the navy, has charge of the boxing squad and is confident he has several mighty good boys. The card:

122-Pound Class—Robert Reese vs. G. C. Butler.

128-Pound Class—F. R. Dougherty vs. James Hayden.

158-Pound Class—Charles Bryant vs. Walter Miller and L. E. Davis vs. C. C. Perkins.

Wrestling—Joseph Pitlock vs. Max Russell.

Referee—Ensign A. P. Anderson; timer, Chief J. J. Riley.

HARVARD-TECH TEAMS ARE TO MEET ON MAT

Harvard and Tech will open their wrestling season Saturday afternoon in a dual meet in the former's gymnasium. Bouts will be held in six classes. Other dates on Harvard's card are with Brown, Yale and Princeton.

Loughlin Wins in Hurry

SECTION BASE IS SURE TO HAVE SPEEDY RELAY

Joe Lynch and Ed Anderson, formerly of Boston College High; Roy Clifford of the Baraca Club, Brighton, and ex-Port Jay tophter; M. Miledy of the Waltham A. C.; D. Tarpey, J. B. Brady and Lawrence Ganger, formerly of the Cleveland A. C and Radio School, are prominently included among the candidates trying for places on the Section Naval Base relay team which will be in action at the Army-Navy games, in the Boy Armory, Saturday night. Section Base's opponent has not yet been selected.

'JIM' CORBETT MAY REFEREE TITLE BOUT

Promoter Rickard has decided to mention Corbett to the principals as one of the eligibles, it was learned today.

New York, Feb. 12—The bustling city of Akron, O., may land the big fight July 4.

Promoter Tex Rickard has received an alluring offer from a syndicate of Akron business men who are eager to have Jess Willard defend his title against Jack Dempsey within their gates, and it was learned today that he is giving the offer serious consideration.

Akron, it is pointed out, would be an ideal site for the big battle. It is centrally located and could be reached easily by boxing fans from all sections.

The Akron boosters claim they can offer Rickard the privilege of staging the battle over the twenty-round route, and that unless present plans go awry a monster arena, being planned as a permanent affair, will be available for the bout by July 4.

Personally Rickard would prefer to stage the fight near either New York or Chicago. He hopes to "play" to a $200,000 gate, and intends to take no chances of staging the battle in a spot which will result in making a flivver.

Rickard plans to leave here Saturday for a tour of the Middle West to visit a number of cities which have made bids and get the "local color." He announced today he does not intend to decide definitely on the location of the bout until after boxing bills now pending in several State Legislatures are rejected or become laws.

POLICE BAN ON BRIDGEPORT BOUTS

Bridgeport, Ct., Feb. 12.—Police Commissioner Stanley refused today to grant a permit for an amateur boxing tournament that the local Y. M. C. A. applied for. This is taken to mean that all boxing will be taboo here. Professional bouts hitherto have been allowed.

FOHL GETS NUNAMAKER IN SWAP WITH BROWNS

Cleveland, Feb. 12.—Leslie Nunamaker, former Red Sox and Yankee catcher, who was with the Browns last year, will be Steve O'Neill's chief assistant in this season's race, President Dunn has secured his release from St. Louis in exchange for Josh Billings.

Stecher Tosses Gustavson

Portland, Me., Feb. 12.—Joe Stecher threw Charles Gustavson in straight falls in their wrestling match here.

This Day in History—February 12, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the discovery of gold, in 1851, in New South Wales. It led largely to a more rapid development of Australia, though the gold production, totalling about $3,000,000,000 to date, has steadily dwindled. Some extremely large blocks of pure gold have been discovered in Australia.

The Belle of New York

AN ABSORBING NEW MOTION SERIAL

Marion Davies Is Featured as the Beautiful Violet Gray in This Story of Love and Machinery in the Middle West

By Jane McLean

(Novelized from the Motion Picture, "The Belle of New York," produced under the personal direction of Julius Steger and released by Select Pictures Corporation.)

IN the little home on Tenth street Violet Gray was looking with astonished eyes at the check for $1,000, the first tangible evidence of her father's success.

She threw her arms about his neck and questioned him, eagerly—and he drew her to his knee and told her that the beginning of his long dream had come true.

"And now, dear daughter," he said with a little quaver in his soft voice, "I want you to make your preparations to go to New York and begin your training. You shall study with Signor Cudia, and the success that was to have been your mother's shall now be yours."

"But you—what will you do here all alone?" asked Violet, her eyes shining and her heart clouded with the thought of leaving her father to lonely evenings in the little house.

"I, my dear," cried the old gentleman, "why I shall be so busy working all day in the big laboratories that I shall be only too glad to turn in early and sleep, and Mary here can do for me plenty well enough. No, no, Violet, don't you fret for one moment—your father will miss you, of course, but, then you can write me each evening just how you are getting along and I can write you, and before we know it we'll be together to do just as we like."

So it was settled and Violet called in a few of the neighbors to tell them she was going to New York to study music and to ask them on the sly if they would keep a weather eye out for her father.

And they all sighed and wished her good luck and assured her she would soon rival Farrar as a famous prima donna.

It was a busy time for Violet—Mary helped her pick out the needed travelling accessories and a new frock for the big city. It was exciting and novel and full of promise for the days to come. Still the girl used rare discretion in her purchases and when she announced herself ready to start she had made only a small inroad on the sum her father had given her.

He was delighted, as usual, much pleased with everything she showed him and loud in his praise of her judgment and her economy. "but my dear," he said, "you needn't have stinted yourself, there'll be plenty more checks to follow this one. You could have had anything you wanted. But never mind, it will come gradually.

He tried his best to be lighthearted the next day, after he had carefully enjoined Violet not to lose the letter of introduction he had given her to Signor Cudia and he succeeded fairly well all the way to the station, and even after he had kissed his daughter good-bye on the sleeper which was to carry her to the City of Magic.

But when the train moved away he surreptitiously wiped away a few tears that insisted on betraying his feelings and started back to his house with a lonely heart.

From that time on he threw his whole soul into the completion of the transformer, and the wonderful facilities afforded by the great laboratories of the Bronson Comedy assembled him to expedite his results.

The first check was coming to an end—and in his timid way he approached Mr. Bronson for another allowance as his month was up—that gentleman received him with the most kindly consideration and promptly handed him another $1,000 check.

Talked With Harding

He talked with Harding a little after the old gentleman left. "What's the matter with the patent?"

"Well, you can't hurry them at Washington, you know; besides it won't do for us to show we're too anxious."

"That so," agreed Bronson. "I suppose there's nothing to do but to keep the old fossil happy and keep him working—"

"I must say he tends strictly to business," the lawyer said.

"Why wouldn't he?" was Bronson's brusque reply. "Let him fiddle along till we get the thing completed and then he'll come to."

"Aren't you going to give him something handsome?" asked Harding. "Now see here, Harding, hold your horses. He'll get all that's coming to him just as I told you he would, and no man need expect more than that. All I want you to do is to be sure I'm not exceeding my legal rights in having this thing put in my own name."

"The legal rights are O. K. but how about the moral rights?"

"Might makes right in this case, Harding."

The lawyer was inclined to be argumentative. "Not in this case; this man is not an ordinary man. He's spent his whole life on this thing and if it turns out to be a case of might make right it may also turn out to be a case of might takes life."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Bronson, "that's a good one! You think that little chap would threaten me? Why, Harding, I could take him with one hand and lick another man, twice his size while I was holding him."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking of you."

"You weren't, as usual, much pleased with everything she showed him and loud in his praise of her judgment and her economy. "but my dear," he said, "you needn't have stinted yourself, there'll be plenty more checks to follow this one. You could have had anything you wanted. But never mind, it will come gradually.

"No, I was thinking of him."

"Oh, of him? Well, what of it? We've all got to die some time, and I tell you, Harding, that if some men left themselves, whose business is it? Why, man, you're talking piffle!"

Typical indeed of the souls of the inventor and the millionaire were their thoughts as each sat at night mulling over his hopes. The one was bound up in the success of a loved and loving daughter, the other was absorbed in the career of a loved and loving son. The one prayed for an artistic triumph, a triumph that would appeal to the inner selves of men and women, the other prayed for a triumph of dollars and through them of power.

From Violet came to her father glowing letters of her progress under the skilful teaching of Signor Cudia. She did not conceal the fact that hard work formed a great part of her daily routine, but she rejoiced in her implicit confidence between the lines the delighted Mr. Gray read the beginning of the realization of her hopes for her future.

Won Recognition

Violet's voice had won recognition from her teacher from the first, but he was too well versed in operatic and concert requirements to see in it any promise of a phenomenal success.

But he was willing to go on because one cannot always tell just how a voice will develop and Violet was still very young.

To the young girl New York was a constant surprise—it excited a million times her wildest fancies—its life—its flights—its rush and roar, its theatres and its hotels each seemed to speak of unlimited money of unlimited opportunity.

She confided as much to her landlady, a kindly soul, who kept an ultra nice boarding house in the upper forties. She knew Violet's story and took it upon herself to warn her against the thousand snares that beset the paths of the unwary.

Summer seemed to rush into Winter; never had time taken such rapid wings; the girl was planning to join her father at Christmas unless he could close up his affairs and come to New York. She had written to him several times, hoping that he would soon be free and that she could manage a small apartment on one of the delightful streets that look out on Riverside Drive.

Mr. Gray read her letters and exulted; his work was nearly done—the transformer was perfecting, he remembered his last touch to the work which had taken up his best years, and would soon be ready to begin the happy dream that had floated so long beyond his grasp.

The morning mail brought him an abrupt letter from Mr. Bronson. He read it and then dropped into a chair and trembled.

His reception by the famous millionaire lacked the cordiality to which he had been accustomed. Back of the head of the big works stood Harding. The timid old man advanced with his hat in his hand, the pathetic figure of a suppliant.

Bronson looked on impatiently. "Well, sir, what can I do for you?"

Held Out Letter

Gray held out the letter with a hand that shook visibly.

"I don't understand —" his voice half broken—his eyes looked for a hope he did not feel.

"It's plain enough," growled Bronson. "We have no further need of your service, Mr. Gray—your work is done."

"But the—my share in the transformer—Mr. Bronson, I've come to see you about that—it's true my work is done, and I've come to settle with you. You remember, I told you I trusted you."

Bronson rose out of his chair like a cave man. "What!" he bellowed. "You trusted me—well, that's a good one—you want your share of the patent? Why, sir, the patent belongs to me. You say you invented this transformer—no, sir—you did some work on it in MY laboratories and you were paid for that work, and well paid, too. That's all, sir—that's all."

"You mean to say," stammered the little man, "I am to get nothing for my transformer?" He advanced a step, incredulous, stricken with a terrible fear.

"You've got all you're going to get," bawled Bronson; "good day, sir."

"No, not good day," cried the inventor, now aroused to fury at the prospect of losing the life work to go for nothing and his daughter cheated of all the advantages she was now receiving. "Mr. Bronson —it's impossible—I took you for an honest man, but, sir, you are too low for any words of mine—you are a thief—a thief!" His voice rose with his anger and he raised his arm as though to strike the big figure on the other side of the desk. Instead he gasped, clapped his hand over his heart, stumbled and crumbled to his knees.

Harding rushed to his aid and lifting him by the shoulders managed to drag him out of the office.

Bronson wiped his face and paced the floor—"Fool," he muttered; "fool to threaten me."

He Was Pale.

It was some time before Harding returned; when he did he was pale and disturbed.

"Well, how is the old fool?" asked Bronson, viciously. "For Heaven's sake don't look at me like that—I didn't kill him, did I?"

"You didn't do much to help him to live, did you?" asked the other.

"What do you mean—didn't help him any? Didn't you tell me I was within my rights—was I to trust a crazy fool like that with the most valuable patent of the age. Of course not. And what if he did die here—he might have died in church, mightn't he? I suppose if he'd died saying his prayers you'd have called me responsible for that, too. Where would his patent have been without me—why all he did was to suggest. I am the man who put it through and I am the man who's going to have the credit—that's business, Harding—and now come along, let's get through the day's work and tell me I was within my rights."

Harding took up a letter from the desk. "By the way, he never asked you for any more money after that second thousand, did he?"

"No, he didn't, and he got all he was worth—he got too much, Harding. I wouldn't have given him any more if he had asked. Did he leave any children, wife, anybody? What's that letter you've got?" Harding looked at it—"marked personal—New York."

"JIM, this is my dear Daddy!" I cried, and as the two men shook hands heartily I turned to Evvy: "You understand my ignoring the ladies' first rule, don't you, Evvy? Father Andrew Hyland, I'm going to introduce you now to Miss Mason."

Father Andrew rose not to show the amazement he felt, but he was far too honest to avoid blurting out: "Glad to meet you, Miss Mason—met your husband here awhile ago. Landlords and their folk seem righ neighborly here in the city."

"So Tommy has found our Anne again!" whispered Evvy so only Jim and I could hear. Then she sidled up to Father Andrew and took one of his big, gnarled hands in both her little soft ones.

"So this is Neal's dear, dear father," she murmured, lifting her blue eyes wistfully and wonderingly to the big man who towered above her. "I'm not Mrs. Anybody, dear Father Andrew"—please, please let me call you that; it feels so cosy and homey to know you. I'm just Evelyn Mason, your boy's friend, and proud and happy to meet you, as I know you are of that splendid soldier-boy of ours."

"Well, now, you do make an old man feel at home," said Father Andrew.

Jim's voice seemed to come from far away as he sat telling Father Andrew how mighty happy he was that the telegram from that lad of theirs hadn't stopped our going from coming. They seemed to be getting on very nicely without me, so I followed Evvy, the usurper, into my kitchen.

"Anne, what a—complete Modern that adorable father of yours is. How calmly he accepted our pairing off—you and Tom, Jim and me."

There was no possible answer. So I smiled wryly and fell to cutting the bread for—Evvy's toast

"MADEMOISELLE, may I confide in you?" he asked hesitatingly. "To tell you the truth, I am mystified."

"Why?" I inquired, in pretence of ignorance.

"Well, because Anna's letters grow colder each time she writes to me, and I am fearing that her exalted position at court is responsible for it. I know that her father is a court official, and that she has been—well, a court favorite. Yet we love each other, and surely there should be no estrangement between us."

Then, after a second's pause, the good fellow added: "I tell you this, madamoiselle, because I know you are my real friend."

As we strolled together past a great gang of gardeners who were sweeping the paths—those broad paths which were the most scrupulously kept of those of any imperial palace in the world—I felt myself in a quandary. The Empress was adopting something, but of its object or motive I could conceive no idea.

The fact that she entertained such a friend as Violet dislike to Lieutenant Vyrubova had from the first been a complete mystery, just as much of a mystery as the attraction towards Colonel Orasnovski.

I could only reassure him. It was, I saw, the best and most diplomatic course.

"I am certainly your friend, my dear Monsieur Vyrubova," I said, "and as such I advise you to take no notice of her Majesty's apparent coldness. Remember that she is the Empress, and as Empress has much to do and a thousand and one responsibilities. Social amenities are outside her sphere. The Czarina is, after all, but the figurehead of feminine Russia, and the mother of the heir."

"I know, and I quite appreciate all you say, mademoiselle," he said, tapping his gravel impatiently with his silver-knobbed cane. "But, in confidence—I tell you only because I know you to be my friend as well as Anna's—I have heard very ugly rumors concerning that devilish monk, called Grichka."

I affected surprise, and inquired what he meant.

"Well," he went on, as we still strolled side by side, "it has been said that he is a friend of Anna's—that he has endeavored to exert his hypnotic influence over her. But, thank heaven, I know Anna to be far too strong-minded to fall beneath such a pernicious influence."

"Of course, I reassured him, being compelled to do so, even though I knew that his suspicion was the truth. The unwashed starets held the greatest influence over Madame Vyrubova, indeed, she had already in secret become the head of his sister disciples.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft, curved lines of healthy womanhood, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency as well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by all the large Boston Drug stores and all druggists everywhere on the principle of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and thus supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance. The increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy which nearly always accompany thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:—Although bitro-phosphate is highly recommended for nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.—Advertisement.

A HOME MADE GRAY HAIR REMEDY

You Can Make at Home a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. You can darken it without using a dye.

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, a very little cost, that will darken gray hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger. It is not a dye, it does not color the most delicate scalp; is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

February Is Party Month

By Loretto C. Lynch

FEBRUARY—month of heroes, statesmen and saints! Who is there amongst us who can resist a little party during this month? With so many of our dear boys back from overseas, even the girl of slender means is determined to have a party this year on one of the several occasions.

Suppose it is a Lincoln Party. A novel twist may be given such a party this year by sending your invitations out on little pickaninnies cut from black cardboard. A touch of red ink will give the red lips and white ink may be used for indicating the other features. White ink may also be used to pen an invitation to the "Freedom Party."

Two business girls with a small apartment told me of a novel party they are giving this year. There are only six couples, but they are mostly boys and girls who have been eating rationed war food. These girls are having a good old Southern Mammy with bandana handkerchief and all the fixins' come and cook an old Southern dinner—"A Slavery Dinner." There's going to be fried chicken with cream gravy and corn fritters. There's gwine to be guava jelly and cornmeal and molasses pudding.

Where space permits, a Washington Party might take the form of a Colonial Dances affair. Costumes above add to any affair. Cheap calithic linings in pretty colors make effective Colonial gowns. Crepe paper is also frequently used for the beruffled, hooped skirts of bygone days. Of course the girls' hair must be powdered and worn piled high, and there must be White and Tory patches. But the menu may be quite simple. Sandwiches of substantial fillings, small cakes, ice cream or water ices and hot coffee or chocolate is quite enough and is not difficult to serve.

Of course, we must not forget Saint Valentine—patron of lovers. The invitations may be written on real, old-timy lace valentines.

Sick Four Years, Red Cross Worker Tells How She Got Well

Interesting Case of a Boston Woman

The case of Mrs. G. I. Baird, Allston, Mass., may bring new hope and health to other sufferers who have stomach worms and do not know what is the matter. A letter from this sufferer tells the story:

"I have been sick almost two years, had four doctors with little or no relief. Some of the doctors said I had enlarged liver, nervous indigestion, too much acid in my system. I was so tired in the morning it seemed as though I could not get dressed and get to work. I was growing thin every day, went from 138 to 111.

"My stomach was sour all the time and some days I could not retain what I ate, while other days couldn't keep anything on my stomach. I coughed so just the minute I went to bed some nights I would not sleep more than one or two hours.

"I was so discouraged I didn't know what to do. One night, about three weeks ago, I picked up a paper and saw your Dr. True's Elixir, Family Laxative and Worm Expeller advertised. I made up my mind I had stood and the next day bought a small bottle of Dr. True's Elixir and took three teaspoonfuls until I had taken the bottle.

"The day before I took Dr. True's Elixir I thought I should go wild with the crawling sensation in my stomach, evidently worms. The second dose stopped the crawling and the second night I didn't cough. I was surprised at the results.

"I feel like a new person, all my friends say I look so much better, but I don't need to have them tell me, for I know my feelings. I wouldn't have believed any one could feel so much better in such a short time. I tell everyone I know. I can't give your medicine praise enough."

The medicine mentioned in the above letter is made by Dr. J. F. True & Co., Auburn, Maine, and is called Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. On sale everywhere medicine is sold. Recommended by many druggists who have used it in their own families.

It is absolutely necessary to be in good health. A vast number of women neglect the very foundation of all beauty—the general health. To really look well, you must really feel well. Beauty is nature's priceless gift to women, but to possess it they must first take care

To Have a Wealth of Health

There is an easy way to make the charm of sparkling eye and unclouded brow—of spotless complexion, rosy, smiling lips and vivacious spirits—your very own.

You can quickly correct conditions of nervous headache, chronic indigestion, unaccountable lassitude, depression and frequent functional irregularities. These conditions that tend to extinguish attractiveness, and render brightness and gaiety of mind impossible, are usually preventable. To attain and retain the true bloom of health what you need do is to systematically—regularly—whenever occasion requires—

LINCOLN DAY IS OBSERVED IN NEW ENGLAND

Though Not a Legal Holiday, There Is General Tribute to the Emancipator

The 110th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln was observed throughout New England and the nation yesterday in many appropriate ways.

Almost [illegible] in the [illegible] in London [illegible] to-day was observed with appropriate and [illegible] ways.

The Boston [illegible] exchange was closed in order [illegible] to the martyred President. While there was little or no [illegible] in America [illegible] lose the [illegible] of the [illegible] entered [illegible] the [illegible] and social [illegible] yesterday. Many and [illegible] were [illegible]

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

A [illegible] proclamation [illegible] issued [illegible] in the [illegible] Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts setting aside February 12 as a day [illegible] to the observance of Lincoln's memory, "as inspiring benefactions of the life and [illegible] a mirror of his character," people gathered "in places of [illegible] and worship, wherever people meet with one another" to pay their tribute of respect to the "first American."

Schools and churches observed the day by patriotic exercises and special religious services and in many surrounding towns popular demonstrations in public halls were addressed by prominent speakers.

In Boston Lincoln Night will be observed by the annual banquet of the Middlesex Club, the largest Republican Club in the State, at the Hotel Somerset. Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, himself a pioneer and counterpart of Lincoln in his rise from an obscure youth to the highest office in the State, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker.

Ausonia Council, K. of C. will hold its annual charity ball in Paul Revere Hall at Mechanics' Building at 9 o'clock, and the Seventeenth Annual Ball and Costume Party of the Old Colony Republican Benevolent Association will take place at Hibernian Hall, Dudley street, Roxbury, at the usual hour.

The 21st annual banquet of the Boston Credit & Collection Men's Club will take place at the Boston City Club to-night.

THE YEAR OLD.

Lincoln's birthday at Camp Devens was marked by the attendance of Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, accompanied by Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff of the Department of the North East. All drills throughout the cantonment were suspended for the day, and the men gathered in the various welfare centers and community houses to listen to patriotic addresses extolling the martyred President. A full program of sports for the men in camp was carried out as planned, and thousands of visitors from New England were guests of the camp during the day.

Alvin Scheidler, the well-known "cellist, was scheduled to give a recital during the afternoon at Jordan Hall, Huntington avenue.

Not the least of those who celebrated the semi-holiday was Mrs. Mary Bradbury Robinson of Malden, who quietly observed the 107th anniversary of her own birth, which took place in 1819 at Warner, N. H.

GUY A. HAM PRESIDENT OF NEW BOSTON BANK

Boston has a new national bank. The Comptroller of the Currency has authorized the organization of the "Citizens' National Bank of Boston," with a capital of $500,000 and a [illegible] surplus of $250,000, and temporary offices have been established at 53 [illegible] street. Guy A. Ham is president. The other officers are: Wilbur P. Neal, vice-president; Edward [illegible], Albert J. Carter and Harold P. Newell, assistant cashiers.

It is proposed to locate the new bank at No. 181 Summer street, in Tavoy square. It will not be affiliated directly or indirectly with any other banking institution.

PROF. HART TO SPEAK AT FANEUIL HALL

The mid-winter meeting of the Massachusetts Citizens' Club will be held at Faneuil Hall to-night. Miss Katharine G. Loring, Harry N. Sawyer, Charles K. Bolton and Miss Mary E. Hall will speak in the meeting and Professor Albert Bushnell Hart and Walter B. Briggs in the afternoon. The club favors the idea of erecting memorial libraries in honor of the soldier and sailor dead of the war.

DEFIANT SPIRIT OF U. S. MEN WON, SAYS GIBBS

New York, Feb. 12.—The spirit of defiance shown by the American fighting forces in France during the times when the [illegible] looked black did much toward gaining the victory, according to Philip Gibbs, British correspondent, who is here in New York today. The defiance, he said to an address here, was born of a desire to win. Other allied troops were highly praised by the correspondent.

QUINCY BANQUETS FOR FATHERS AND SONS

Hundreds of Quincy men and boys are to attend the "Fathers and Sons" banquets which will be held in Quincy tonight under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. Every church and social organization in the city is co-operating and all parts of the city will be represented. Banquets will be held at Quincy, Wollaston, West Quincy and Atlantic.

Exchanges Closed Today

Today, Lincoln's Birthday, there will be no stock exchange quotations. Both the New York and Boston exchanges remain closed all day.

LEAGUE DEPENDS ON NATIONS CHOSEN, SAYS SHAW

Mr. Balfour, Lord Grey and Lord Robert Cecil, M. Pichon, M. Poincare and Baron Sonnino, saying:

"I trust you don't mean us," and Mr. Wilson replying with his jaw set in a halo of his famous smile:

"You are too modest, gentlemen. I do mean you, and, the central empires being now disposed of, nobody else."

Talk Stilled in England

It may prove that at this point the fat is in the fire. That French diplomatists and English country gentlemen of £30,000 a year are to allow themselves to be schoolmastered by an American professor is a phenomenon which to them will appear nothing short of apocalyptic, and some of them have given anguished expression to this feeling in private.

But the President's extraordinary personal success in London has put an end to such snobbish recalcitrance in England. Today the role of Charlemagne is to him who can play it; the tiara to him who can pontificate.

After the banquet at Buckingham Palace and the reception at Guildhall, no doubt remained as to who was king, by divine right of character and personality, in western Europe.

But even whilst Mr. Wilson was speaking at the Guildhall the votes cast at the general election a fortnight before were being counted, and next day the court revealed an overwhelming majority in Parliament for the party against which Mr. Wilson will have to fight tooth and nail in the peace conference if he is to carry his fourteen points.

Old Balance Unstable

"I find in my welcome," said the President at the Guildhall, "the thought that they (the allied nations) have tought to do away with the old order and establish a new one, and that the key of the old order was that unstable thing which we used to call the balance of power, a thing which was determined by the sword which was thrown in on the one side or the other; a balance which was maintained by jealous watchfulness and an antagonism of interests which, though it was generally latent, was always deep-seated."

Unfortunately, the old order was just then receiving a five years' lease of parliamentary supremacy from that proportion (about half) of the registered electors of the United Kingdom which took the trouble to vote.

As far as they can be said to have voted for anything definite, they voted for hanging the Kaiser, and the degree of their political sagacity may be inferred from the fact that in order to secure that satisfaction they put into power the party which will certainly do its best to restore the Prussian monarchy, and which is in sympathy with Mr. Wilson's opponents in the United States to such an extent that the first practical installment of the League of Nations looks very like a combination of the British Government and the American opposition against the American Government and the British opposition.

League Real Question

All of which confirms the view that Mr. Wilson will not be helped by party politics. He must make his way as the Man of Destiny, depending for his support on the hopes and fears of mankind, and on the urge of evolution which inspires them, waving the mere votes aside as an old hand who knows what votes are worth.

The crux of the fourteen points is the League of Nations, and what we have to consider now is what this league must come to in practice.

At the Guildhall Mr. Wilson described it as "not one group of nations set against another, but a single, overwhelming, powerful group of nations which shall be the trustee of the peace of the world." At which there was immense cheering.

It will be observed that in this definition the group is only a group. "The parliament of man, the federation of the world," is still out of the question, and Anacharsis Klootz, orator of the human race, is still a fool and farceur. This is quite as it must be. For I am sorry to say that Anacharsis Klootz, being guillotined, yet speaketh, and is indeed all over the place, especially in the United States, which issues from the press every week or so the latest crank-built scheme for assembling all the nations of the earth, black and white, brown and yellow, pagan and Christian, savage and civilized; as big as the United States or as little as the Republic of San Salvador, not to mention Monaco or Andorra, at the Hague; to fall on one another's necks and do something which is vaguely described as arbitrating, with a view to the immediate establishment of the millennium.

Now, if this sort of folly were confined to the American crank, it would not matter.

I know the American crank well; he never stops writing to me under the impression that I am the world's supercrank.

Confidence in President.

But the British official League of Nations' diplomatist is Lord Robert Cecil, and he talks just the same nonsense; he also has solemnly come to the conclusion that unless all the nations of the earth are included there can be no League of Nations. Whereas, the obvious truth to anyone who has given a properly qualified and furnished mind to the subject for ten minutes, is that the practicability and success of the League of Nations depends on limitation to a carefully selected group of politically and psychologically homogeneous constituents.

As I write these lines the report comes that M. Leon Bourgeois is vehemently of the same opinion from the French point of view.

No autocracy is eligible for such a combination, because autocrats die, go mad, take to drink, can be bribed, and cannot possibly govern their countries except by delegating their power to hundreds of petty autocrats, in no real organic relation to one another, and all subject to the vicissitudes that threaten the chief autocrat.

When an American President, who theoretically has no power to pledge his jealously democratic country at all, gives an undertaking that the United States will observe such and such covenants for the next twenty years, no one hesitates to stake all his capital on the certainty that the undertaking will be carried out.

When some oriental Tsar, who has absolute power to pledge his country, gives a similar undertaking, it is not valid for five months or five minutes; consequently no one in his senses will stake ten dollars on its being carried out.

Now the solidity of the League of Nations depends on the constituent nations being in a position to give pledges that command practically absolute confidence; in technical terms, having a responsible government.

An autocracy cannot deliver the goods, and that settles the question of its eligibility for a League of Nations, and settles it emphatically in the negative.

Even an alliance, as the breakdown of the Russian alliance has just proved, is not safe with an autocracy.

Another article by George Bernard Shaw will be in next Sunday's Advertiser and American.

HORACE G. ALLEN, EX-ALDERMAN, IS DEAD

Following a brief illness with pneumonia Horace G. Allen, former transit commissioner and alderman of the city of Boston, died today at his home, No. 1924 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton.

Mr. Allen was well known in Boston political circles and was at one time a candidate for Mayor. He entered politics at the age of 18 in 1885, representing Ward 21 of Roxbury in the Common Council from 1885 to 1891. In 1889 he was elected president of the council and was re-elected in 1890.

Mr. Allen was born on the Allendale estate in Jamaica Plain, July 27, 1853, and was educated in the Boston public schools. He received his LL.B. at Harvard Law School in 1876, and entered the law office of Nathan Morse, with whom he afterward formed the partnership of Morse & Allen. In 1894 he was president of the Roxbury Club.

In 1883 Mr. Allen married Miss Grace D. Chamberlain, only daughter of General Joshua L. Chamberlain of Brunswick, Me. Mrs. Allen and two children survive.

Both Authorities and Strike Leaders Should Keep Strictly to the Law at Lawrence

It is well for all parties to the unpleasantness in Lawrence to understand and to keep in mind the relative rights of each other.

It may be true, as reported, that some of the leaders of the strike entertain revolutionary ideas in the sense of accomplishing their economic changes in defiance of the law and outside of its regularly constituted processes.

Now, the right of revolution is an inalienable right recognized by all people. It is a right which we asserted when we freed ourselves from British tyranny in 1776. It is a right which the British people asserted when they overthrew King Charles and executed him in the first revolution, and when a few years later they threw out his brother James. It is a right which the French people asserted just after our revolution when they overthrew the Bourbon monarchy and executed the Bourbon King. It is a right which the Russian, the German, the Austrian and Bulgarian people have recently asserted.

But, on the other hand, governments have a right to defend themselves against revolutionary attempts by the severest measures. The ordinary civil liberties which attach to the citizen of a free government may not be exercised to overthrow that government by any revolutionary process. The right of free speech, the right to assemble freely and the freedom of the press are all rights which may be exercised only for the purpose of accomplishing changes within the orderly processes. This is particularly so when the constitution of the country provides adequate and orderly methods of accomplishing reforms and of securing rights. No government can exist permanently which continuously allows its laws to be violated and defied or which allows attempts to destroy it by violence. This, of course, is as true of those violations by the powerful business interests for the very inadequate motive of unscrupulous greed as it is of violence by working men in the sincere attempt to secure for themselves living conditions.

The strike leaders in Lawrence ought not to incite their followers to do unlawful things, for two reasons:

First: Because every breach of the law brings it into contempt and tends generally to impair the safeguards which the law throws around these very strike leaders. Since the government has a right to protect itself against revolutionary methods and since the civil rights of a man are lost when he is employing them to promote revolution, such methods jeopardize the leadership of the strikers if their leadership is important to their followers.

Second: Because the advocacy of violence deprives the strikers of public sympathy which they almost always have in these cases.

But the government officials want to remember also that there is no better way of inviting dangerous revolutionary methods than by being guilty of revolutionary methods themselves. A police commissioner or any other public authority who denies improperly a citizen's right of free speech and the freedom of assembly for discussion is guilty of just as revolutionary conduct as a strike leader who advised his followers to some act of violence for the purpose of overthrowing the law. When a public officer acts beyond his authority he does not act as a public officer, and he becomes just as much a revolutionist as any other advocate of overthrowing the law by violence. There has been altogether too much denying of free speech and right of free assembly by the police authorities of this State. We understand the temptation of the police authorities to break the law with respect to the right of people on a strike under some circumstances. The position of those whose duty it is to enforce the law and maintain order during a great strike is often perplexing and requires a great deal of patience, and sometimes of sympathy, for those with whom they have to deal. But Massachusetts is not the State nor are these the times where and when the right of free speech and of free assembling ought to be violated by public authorities.

And yet, men ought not to be allowed to advocate before assemblies, in an inflammable state of mind, and especially in a foreign language, incendiary and revolutionary schemes.

We are not the great democracy which we pretend to be if we cannot enforce the law firmly and yet without violating the fundamental liberties of the people.

The Silver and the Gold Chevron

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

It would be, as a soldier who missed his chance to go abroad suggests, a good idea if President Wilson, the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy would wear on their coat sleeves the silver chevron indicating the man that did not cross the ocean and fight.

The man who did cross and did his full duty is entitled to honor and gratitude. The man who was ready to go, willing and ANXIOUS to fight for his country, but who could go only if the order came, and who was not sent abroad, is also entitled to honor and respect. It is not his fault or wish that kept him from fighting, but the decision of his superiors.

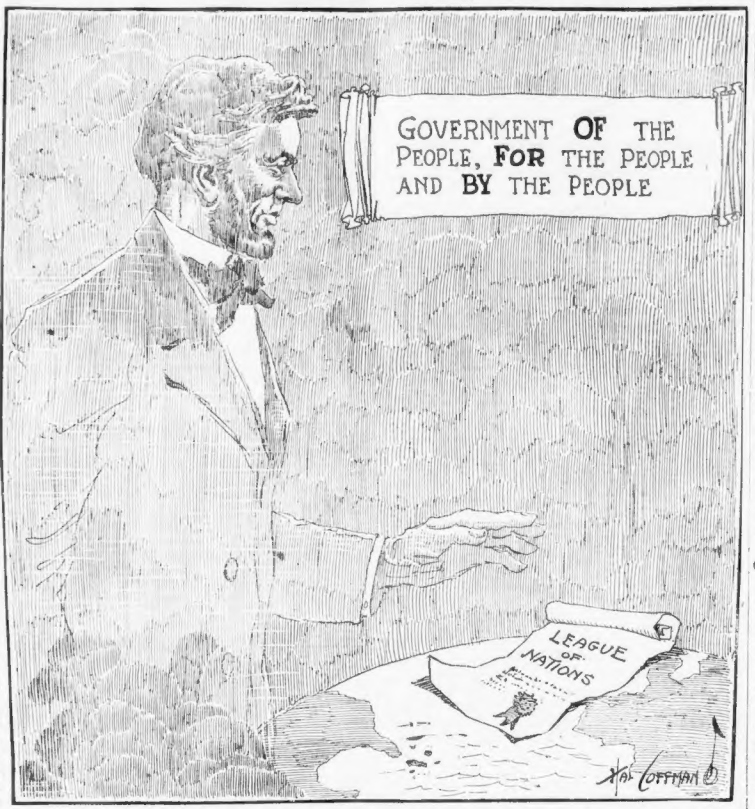
An unpleasant incident happened in Washington when a man, ill advised, spoke of the silver chevron on a soldier's coat as "the white feather." He was promptly knocked flat on his back by the wearer of the silver chevron, who turned out to be the better man.

There should be no display of such feeling, and the public should realize that the gold chevron and the silver chevron are alike worn by men who obeyed the country's order, went abroad if they were told to go, stayed here if they were kept here.

The man who went abroad was SENT abroad. The man who stayed at home was KEPT at home. Both were willing to go and WANTED to go. What makes the young men so bitterly discontented in camp now is the knowledge that their chance to fight for their country has gone by.

With the six months' pay the Government should give to each soldier a service badge, an appropriate button or some other insignia to show, when his uniform is off, that he was one of the nation's great army.

Becoming Universal



Ye TOWN GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

AT A house.
WHERE I was a guest.
FOR TWO or three days.
THERE WAS a woman.
AND THEY called her Auntie.
AND THEY all liked her.
AND I liked her.
IN SPITE of the fact.
THAT IN three days.
THERE WERE many times.
WHEN I wanted to slap her.
OR THROW a book at her.
OR PUT her outside.
BUT I couldn't do it.
BECAUSE I'D just met her.
AND DIDN'T know her very well.
AND I was a guest.
AND YOU'LL understand.
WHEN I tell you.
THAT THE first morning.
WHEN I came downstairs.
AFTER SLEEPING poorly.
IN A strange bed.
AND IF I'd been home.
I'D HAVE had a group
SHE WAS there.
IN A dining room window.
IN A rocking chair.
AND SHE said good morning.
AND I replied.
AND SAT down at the table.
AND THE maid came in.
AND WHILE I ate.
I LOOKED at Auntie.
AND SHE was sitting there.
IN HER rocking chair.
SORT OF all humped up.
WITH HER stomach in.
AND HER shoulders up.
AND HER head sunk down.
AND HER eyes sticking out.
AND LOOKING at nothing.
AND I didn't mind that.
BUT ALL the time.
SHE KEPT picking away.
AT THE point of her chin.
AND SHE had it all red.
AND FOR three days.
IT RAINED outside.
AND WE all stayed in.
AND FOR three days.
AUNTIE SAT around.
WHEREVER WE were.
AND PICKED at her chin.
AND WHAT with the rain.
AND THE rotten weather.
AND STAYING indoors.
SHE GOT me so nervous.
I'D JUST sit there.
AND STARE at her.
AND I couldn't help it.
I ASKED her niece.
WHY AUNTIE did it.
AND HER niece said.
THAT FOR thirty years.
SHE'D BEEN picking hairs.
FROM OUT of her chin.
AND HER niece's boy said.
"IF SHE hadn't did it.
"SHE'D BEEN a hearded lady."
AND AUNTIE heard them.
AND LAUGHED a little.
AND WENT right on picking.

I THANK you.

GREAT martyred friend of Humankind—
Unswerving in thy zeal for right—
Thy natal day, by fate assigned,
Breaks on the world with welcome light.

Thy principles, of flawless plan,
Still find in thy successor true
A champion of the Rights of Man—
Calm, resolute and sweet—as YOU.

While statesmen vent their lust for power
And captains prate of "other wars,"
In this, the World's most fateful hour,
We seek thy counsel: Make us pause!

Still let thy high example stand—
A tow'r of strength in just rebuke
To every ruthless, greedy hand
Of premier, delegate or duke.

Thy life is still the beacon light
To guide the nations on their way
As, groping, they emerge from night,
And, chastened, greet the dawning day!

Dear Lincoln, of the kindly heart,
Clear eye and rugged frame uncouth,
Still be to us the counterpart
Of JUSTICE, FREEDOM, LOVE and TRUTH!

Letters to the Editor

Medical Corps

Editor Boston American:

Your paper has given so much attention to the men in service, I would like, if possible, through your paper, if you could give some information why men in the Medical Department, with dependents, cannot procure discharge after making the necessary application, and having their wives deprived of the luxuries of life by living on thirty dollars per month, while at the same time there are men discharged from this detachment to accept positions with no dependents. I hope this will be given your earliest consideration, and thanking you in advance,

SOLDIER.

A Good Smoke

Editor Boston American:

In answer to Dr. Gorham on his dislike for tobacco, I presume he and his patients (if he has any) are of very refined specimens, away up above the ordinary citizen, and especially the common working class to which I have the honor to belong. I assure Dr. Gorham that he does not know what it is to be alive, if he never enjoyed a good smoke after a hard day's work. I must say that I really feel sorry for him, and I wish him many a pleasant stroll, inhaling his favorite perfume from the skunks, while I enjoy my comfortable smoke at home in my old arm chair.

The Inventor of Spectacles

All European references to the use of spectacles before the year 1270 are dubious. Pliny's description of Nero looking at the gladiatorial combats through an emerald means at best only a lorgnette, or most probably a reflecting mirror. Roger Bacon seems to have known of magnifying lenses —1276—which soon became common enough, but the probable inventor of spectacles as such was a Florentine worthy on whose tombstone in the Church of Santa Croce is the inscription:

"Here lies Salvino d'Armato degli Armati of Florence, the inventor of spectacles. Anno Domini 1317."

HOW SIGNALS COULD COME FROM OTHER WORLDS

By Garrett P. Serviss

ONE of the objections offered by those who scout the bare suggestion of the possibility of intercommunication by signals between intelligences inhabiting different planets is that the electric waves diminish in intensity inversely as the square of the distance, just as light does, so then their power to convey impressions must become almost infinitesimal at a distance of hundreds of millions of miles, to say nothing of the trillions of miles that represent the distance not of the planets of our system but of the stars which are the suns of other systems.

But this objection ignores the consideration that by depriving the electric waves of their radiant scattering, and concentrating them in straight lines, like light reflected from a parabolic mirror, the law of diminution with the square of the increased distance would be avoided, and the intensity at the reception point would depend only upon the absorption suffered in the course of transit, and not upon the scattering along diverging radial lines. Thus the radiant energy emanating from a considerable surface could all be condensed into a more or less parallel-sided column, or cylinder, as is actually done in lighthouse apparatus, and elsewhere.

Obstruction En Route

Another question is as to the degree of sensitiveness required in order that electric waves that had traversed millions of miles of ether should be recognizable at the place where they finally impinged. Also, supposing them to travel in parallel columns and not along radial lines, how much obstruction or absorption would they suffer?

Very suggestive in connection with this subject are some thoughts put forth many years ago by an unnamed writer, presented to the public by Thomas Hill, who was president of Harvard University. Says this interesting thinker:

"The rays of sight diverge from the eye, so that a very small body close to the eye fills up the interval between two such rays, while at a greater distance a much larger body is necessary to fill up the proportionately increased space. If we hold up a quarter at arm's length we may completely conceal the sun with it. If, on the contrary, an organ of vision was constructed in such a manner that the rays proceeded in parallel lines every object would appear in proportion to every other of its own proper size without any reference to the distance between it and the eye.

"We should certainly not see distant bodies entire, but only such small portions of them as are proportionate to the size of the organ of vision, constructed after this fashion; but this little portion would be visible with equal clearness at every distance, and a blade of grass upon the most distant star could not escape our sight."

The Changing Process

This is the principle that we have already mentioned, viz.: that of changing radiant into parallel beams, although the writer produces some confusion of thought by supposing this change to take place in the eye instead of in the manner of transmission of the light from the point of beginning. For light, proceeding in parallel lines from a blade of grass on a distant planet, substitute electric impulses conveyed in a similar manner from a transmitting station on Venus, and you have the other side of the picture—that suggested by Mr. Marconi, viz.: a wireless receiver on the earth responding to impulses transmitted undiminished, or not enough diminished to render them imperceptible, from a centre of energy tens of millions of miles away. The thing is certainly conceivable.

AN AIR RACE TO NORTH POLE

The Age of Billions.
A British Good Joke.
Who Owns the Ocean?

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Serious disagreement has arisen at the peace conference and threatens to move the conference from Paris to some neutral place or perhaps to London.

This seems to be the heart of the trouble. Countries other than France want Germany to start up her industries, get to work, earn money and be able to pay billions that the Allies claim. She can't pay, of course, unless she gets food and raw material for her workmen.

France is less interested in money than in freedom from future attack. She cannot keep her millions of soldiers locked up in camp much longer. They are not as patient as the Americans and would not tolerate it.

She does not dare demobilize until she is certain the Germans are cut down in a military way so as to prevent any possible menace. The French idea is to continue the German blockade against food and raw material until Germany shall have cut her army down to almost nothing, making it impossible for her to begin the war over again.

The age of billions is surely here, especially for the United States. Secretary Glass wants permission to issue TEN BILLIONS more in bonds, and TEN BILLIONS in notes. What a war it must have been. It is over, and the Spring financing amounts to TWENTY THOUSAND MILLION dollars, on top of all the other billions, and with no end in sight.

Pity Carter Glass, the new Secretary of the Treasury, who must find billions without war excitement to help him.

It is to be hoped that he will manage his difficult financing somehow, without making the new bonds exempt from surplus tax. For such freedom would free the men that own hundreds of millions from taxation during the period of heaviest taxes, and put the load in the old way on small men, business men, and even salaried clerks.

By just one vote the United States Senate decided that women are not people. The dear creatures must sit around, breed sons to be shot in war and let men decide about wars and everything else.

The South, which votes against women, will not complain when women vote against Democrats after the suffrage amendment shall have been passed by the incoming Republican Congress.

It will be passed, of course, and the joke will be on the Democrats. The next step will be to give the North full credit for its women voters, in congressional representation, just as the South gets credit for its colored men. When voting women in the North mean more Republican congressmen at Washington the South probably will revise its views as to the fitness of women to think and share in government powers.

All the way across the ocean the New York World cables a British joke which it says "Goes big over here."

This is the joke, and there is light in it:

After the German fleet had surrendered in deepest humiliation, "one big, round-headed German" expressed his disgust. He spat into the ocean three times, once for the "damned British fleet," once for Admiral Beatty and once for the British nation, saying, "That's what I think of you all."

Then a noble British tar hitches his pants and says: "Look here, Fritz. You can say what you please about the English fleet and nation and Beatty, but you be damned well careful WHOSE ocean you go spitting into."

The British really think the ocean is THEIRS and resent any other claim to it. No wonder after the centuries they have performed, their statesmen reaching out from the little island in all directions over the world, subjecting, colonizing and controlling hundreds or millions of outside human beings and keeping them in order with a few ships.

Look at the map of the world; see the tiny British Island group tucked away in a foggy northwest corner of Europe; search for the spot in London where the House of Commons and the government offices stand, then look over the rest of the world map and see what British statesmen have done and got. India, with her hundreds of millions; New Zealand, Australia, Canada, Egypt, South Africa and all the other lands and populations are tied to Great Britain by STATESMANSHIP, not by force. In the war just ended all these countries showed eagerness to fight for England, the ruler. No wonder the British enjoy the British sailor's warning to the German sailor, "Be damned careful whose ocean you go spitting into."
